TRAGEDY IN SYLVAN SCENE—Among thick woods by Corte Madera Creek, not far from her Kentfield home, the body of 12-year-old Lorna Jane Lax was found late yesterday, a stab wound in the abdomen and a rope around her neck tied to a fig tree. Sheriff's investigators here peer over the rumpled sleeping bag where Lorna lay. Apparently she had been sleeping out since she ran away from home Saturday. (Independent-Journal photo)

Sex Maniac Sought In Slaying Of Kentfield Schoolgirl, 12

Neighbors Say Victim Was Happy, Gracious

Lorna Jane Lax, 12, found slain in a Kentfield thicket last night, was a happy child and well liked, according to residents near 147 Kent avenue, where she lived.

Inspector Bowen Bridges, who questioned neighbors, said the girl was pictured as an outdoor type, happy and courteous.

Her mother said Lorna was "adventuresome," loved the outdoors, and took delight in sleeping outside. She had just a normal interest in boys but had not been dating any of them.

She was disobedient at times, and on about four occasions, had stayed out overnight. But Mrs. May Anna Lax, the mother, was at a loss to explain what Lorna meant in her note when she wrote, "I'm mad at the world." She was "happy as a lark" when last seen Saturday, her mother said.

Although an outdoors type, she was on the frail side. She had had pneumonia several times.

Neighbors described her as "a gracious, considerate person who loved everyone." She was a boyish type that liked to build "forts."

Inspector Bridges said he just learned today that the girl had purchased a half dozen

Child Found Stabbed, Garroted In Thicket

By WAT TAKESHITA

A 12-year-old Kentfield schoolgirl, found garroted and stabbed to death in a thicket near College of Marin last night, apparently was the victim of a sex maniac, Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos said today.

Possibility of suicide faded into the background as sheriff's inspectors pressed an intensive search for the killer of Lorna Jane Lax, seventh grade student at Kent School. She lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John S. Lax, at 147 Kent avenue.

Clad only in a pajama top, the victim lay partially inside a sleeping bag, with her head raised about a foot off the ground by a rope trussed to an overhanging fig branch. The death scene is only a few hundred yards from the home, off an old railroad right of way running between Cedar and Kent avenue.

The thicket lies behind the home of Kentfield Fire Chief John McLeran at 3 Cedar avenue. The girl had apparently made a clearing in the middle of the thicket, surrounded by bamboo, shrubs and trees.

An autopsy conducted at Coroner Frank J. Keaton's office showed two deep stab wounds about an inch apart in the right abdomen and three small bruises on the left side of Lorna's head. The coroner

Seized In Car, Woman Fights Off Assailant

A woman bookkeeper in Sausalito fought off an assailant in her own car yesterday just at dusk.

Mrs. Rosemary Atkins of 185 Bayview drive, San Rafael, bookkeeper at the Trade Fair, scratched her way free from a dark little man wearing smooth black gloves, she told Sausalito police.

ENTERED CAR

The attempted attack took place as Mrs. Atkins, finished with her job for the day, entered her car in a parking lot across Bridgeway boulevard from the Trade Fair.

She told Police Chief Howard W. Goerndt that as she entered her car, she noticed a ball point pen, not hers, lying on the seat. As she turned on the dome light to fish for her keys in her purse, a hand was clasped over her mouth.

At the same time, she said, a tire iron was pressed against her throat.

ORDERED TO DRIVE

She said the man ordered her to drive to San Rafael.

She told police she wrenched herself free and scratched the man's face. Then she ran to the Trade Fair and called police.

When she returned to her car, her purse had been opened and its contents spilled on the seat. Missing were $9, her driver's license and other personal papers.

Mrs. Atkins was not reported as injured.

The Sausalito Police Department issued this all-points bulletin of the wanted assailant:

Possibly a Filipino, 25, about 5 feet 6 inches, 160 pounds, See ASSAULT, page 2

Road Mishap Kills Marin Scout Aide

A 23-year-old Marin Boy Scout leader and active member of the Native Sons of the Golden West was killed yesterday when his car went out of control near San Bernardino after a bird hit the windshield.

Peter Strittmatter was returning to the University of Redlands, where he was a junior, after spending the weekend at home with his mother, Mrs. Verna Strittmatter, at 28 Filbert street, Sausalito.

A railroad enthusiast, he had come to Marin for Sunday's Northwestern Pacific excursion of the Bay Area Electric Railroad Assn.

Strittmatter was driving on Highway 66 near San Bernardino when a bird flew against the windshield and he lost control, the Associated Press reported. The car overturned.

Injured seriously were his two passengers, Denny Sandoval, 18, of Goshen, a Redlands student, and Mrs. Penny Kitron, 16, wife of a Redlands student, the California Highway Patrol said.

Strittmatter was president of Seapoint Parlor 158, Native Sons of the Golden West, until he relinquished the post to go south to school.

At University of Redlands, he was taking a pre-requisite course to become a professional Scouter. He was an Eagle Scout in Sausalito, a Boy Scout leader at the Marin Sierra Camp last summer, and a member of the Marin Boy Scout Council camping committee. He had been active in Scouting since he was 9 years old.

Strittmatter attended the College of Marin for two years, and was a graduate of Marin Catholic High School.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by three brothers, William, Russell and Stanley. Funeral arrangements are pending at the Frank J. Keaton Mortuary, Sausalito.

Juvenile Hall, County Farm Project Split

The Marin County Board of Supervisors today voted to separate the construction of a new $250,000 juvenile hall at Lucas Valley from the new county hospital and farm construction which had previously been considered as a single project.

Purpose was to speed construction of the juvenile facilities. "We're terribly crowded out there," said Supervisor Vera L. Schultz.

The board, which last week granted a 30-day delay to the architect for final plans and specifications, urged all possible speed in completion and in advertising for bids. Supervisors indicated they'd like to get the project out for bids before the first of the year.

Under the proposal the two projects will be built by some other agency under a contract with the county and leased to the county in a lease-purchase arrangement.

Secrecy Veils State's Study Of Marin Jail

Two representatives of the state Department of Corrections breezed into the Marin County Board of Supervisors meeting this morning, reported they are starting "an elaborate study" of the Marin county jail, and told the supervisors they are not to be trusted with the report because the public might hear about it.

In the stunned silence which followed the statement, the two men concluded their remarks and left the room, leaving the supervisors to ask questions of themselves.

'JUST REPORTING'

Murray Hanon and Patrick O'Connor of the Department of Corrections appeared before the board. Hanon did the talking. He said that they were "just reporting we are here and working" on Marin's county jail problems.

They will keep the administrator and the sheriff apprised of their work and findings, he went on, but no report will be made to the supervisors until after the study is completed and the Board of Corrections has reviewed it and made its recommendations.

OTHER CASES

In other cases when reports have been made to supervisors "we've had a couple of unfortunate incidents when the reports got to the press," Hanon explained.

Then, thanking the board for its time, he and O'Connor walked out.

"I don't understand why we're not getting the report," exploded Supervisor Walter R. Castro. "We're the ones who

Larkspur Family Flees As Fire Engulfs 2 Arks

A 38-year-old graduate student, his wife and their three small children fled with only the clothes on their backs early today as fire destroyed their five-room ark on Larkspur's Boardwalk No. 3 and a vacant ark next door.

Lawrence Paul Lish was awakened shortly after 3 a.m. by dense smoke which filled the waterfront dwelling on Corte Madera Creek.

Lish, who is studying for a Ph. D. Degree in English at University of California, dashed to the ark's two butane tanks, but the smoke and flame prevented him from shutting off the valves.

Fearing a momentary explosion, he awoke his wife, Claire, and their three children, Geoffrey, 7; Lupita, 3; and Tahana, three months, and led and carried them safely from the ark. No one was injured.

Mrs. Lish ran to the ark of a neighbor, who summoned the Larkspur Fire Department.

The Lishes' ark and a dilapidated unoccupied structure next door, owned by millionaire A. A. Tiscornia, were enveloped by flame as 20 firemen raced to the scene in three trucks.

"We could see the glow as we left the firehouse," reported Chief John Raggio.

Firemen ran some 500 feet of hose out to the burning wooden structures and managed to prevent further spread of the blaze. Raggio requested help from the Marin County Fire Department, which dispatched three men in two tanker trucks.

The chief said safety valves on the butane tanks prevented an explosion.

Raggio said Lish was unable to shed any light on the fire's cause. The chief inspected the charred ruins of both arks today and could not determine how the fire had started.

There was no immediate estimate of the loss. Lish, who drove off with his family before the fire was extinguished, told Raggio he was not certain whether the ark was insured. He said he had sent a payment to his insurance company after receiving a cancellation notice, Raggio reported.

The family, who lost all of their personal belongings, are staying with Lish's brother, Julius, near Geyserville in Sonoma County.

Lish was in Geyserville late this morning buying new clothes and blankets for his infant daughter.

"We're not at all certain what we're going to do now —what we can do," his wife told the Independent-Journal.

Mrs. Lish said the family bought the ark about five months ago after moving from Southern California, where Lish had been a public school teacher. She said she could not recall the purchase price.

Destroyed in the fire, she reported, was Lish's manuscript for his Ph. D. thesis, on which he had been working for a year.

Mike Melovich and Bowen Bridges take notes toward investigation of crime that today was described as probably a sexual attack and murder. (George Wheeler photo)

said the stab wounds, about three or four inches deep, had punctured the liver. Either of these wounds or the rope around her neck could have caused death. There were signs of sexual molestation.

Lorna's father had reported her missing Saturday night after the parents found this note at their home:

"Dear Mom, I'm mad at the world, so there's only one thing I know to do and that's to get away from these surroundings. So I'm leaving. I'll promise to be back Sunday morning. I'm going to the city, your daughter Lorna Lax."

A postscript in ink read: P. S. I was just faking sick. This apparently referred to the fact the girl had told her parents she was not feeling well a few days before.

Sheriff's Inspector Bowen Bridges and Carl Sears said the girl had invited Norman Fortner, 13, of 65 Hermit street, Kentfield, to visit her "fort" in the thicket Saturday. But Norman was busy with his paper route and did not go to the thicket until last evening.

About 4:15 p.m. yesterday, Norman and his friend, Jeff Doherty of 5 Hillside avenue, Kentfield, decided to go to the "fort." They saw the body and ran for help.

Norman and Mrs. Lax ran back to the thicket. At the sight, Mrs. Lax nearly collapsed. "She got hysterical and was screaming for help," the boy said.

Chief McLeran, who was sleeping, said he was awakened "by the wife and kids screaming." When he heard someone had been hanged, the fire chief ran out partially clothed, with a butcher knife to cut the rope.

"My wife handed me a pair of scissors on the way out," he said. "I started to cut the rope but something made me back away. I knew I was too late."

"I'm still shaky," McLeran

Sheriff's Deputy Edmond Maubret was the first officer at the scene. Inspector Mike Melovich, Identification Chief Earl Cummesky, Identification Technician Ramond Barton and Deputy Douglas Gledhill arrived to protect the scene.

The victim lay face up on the sleeping bag. Under the sleeping bag were a quilt, three blankets, and a peach colored chenille bedspread.

Beside the body lay her clothes, some in a paper box and the rest neatly by her side. None of her clothes were torn. They included a pair of jeans, denim jacket, blue sweat shirt and underwear.

Some silverware, plates, soft drink bottles and candles were also found. They indicated she might have occupied the "fort" for a few days.

Sheriff Mountanos said death must have occurred sometime between Saturday night and Sunday morning. She was last seen at a high school football game played at the nearby College of Marin stadium on Saturday night.

The weapon used in the stabbing has not been located. One ordinary table knife was found, but this could not have inflicted the sharp wounds, Inspector Bridges said. The wound is too big to have been made by an ice pick.

Mrs. Lax at first identified the sleeping bag as belonging to her husband. But this morning, she reported she had found their own sleeping bag. The one used by her daughter is "definitely not ours," she said. Neither were the blankets and other bedding, with the possible exception of one blanket.

Lax, a painting contractor, told officers his daughter had run away before, once to Sacramento. At that time, Sacramento officials suggested she get a psychiatric examination. Mrs. Lax told Inspector Bridges she had been making arrangements for such an examination.

Mr. and Mrs. Lax have another daughter, who is married. Investigators said the girl had been out overnight about four times in the past. In one occasion, Lorna had slept overnight in a parked Greyhound bus.

place settings, chrome plated silver, as a Christmas present for her parents and was hiding them in her "fort." She had told one of her playmates that she had been keeping it a secret to surprise her parents. The silver was found at the death scene.

Teachers at Kent School described her as an "appealing child," nothing out of the ordinary. She did acceptable work, and was "just one of the girls." She had been at the school since 1956, and her attendance record shows nothing out of the ordinary. She had attended school all last week.

Thief Outwitted By Store Owner

The thief who tried to break into the Kentfield Stationery Store, 860 College avenue, Kentfield, Sunday found out he wasn't as smart as he thought he was.

Owner William E. Thiercof told the Marin County sheriff's office that someone tried to push the key out of the door, drop it on a piece of paper, then slide the paper under the door to get the key.

Thiercof had the key tied to the door knob to discourage any such shenanigans.

No forcible entry was attempted.

Novato Boy Admits School Vandalism

A 10-year-old Novato boy has admitted he and a 9-year-old San Francisco friend broke a window in West Novato School over the weekend by shooting a BB gun at it, the Marin County sheriff's office reported today.

The boy said they also broke the glass in fire extinguisher boxes at the school and broke a sewer pipe at a nearby construction site. The vandalism was reported by Principal Donald Wineland. Both boys were to be cited to the probation department.

Marin City School Site Study Slated

Trustees of Tamalpais Union High School District last night directed their structural engineer, Harold M. Engle of San Rafael, to explore with Marin County Housing Authority engineers the cost of improving a 32-acre school site in Marin City.

Improvement, if undertaken, would consist mainly of filling the site and possibly planting grass, with construction of a high school still in the distant future, the board indicated.

Trustees acted after Bert Klahn, executive director of the housing authority, declared the site will become an eyesore in a redeveloped Marin City unless improved by the district.

Klahn asked the board to do one of three things: Improve the site, build a school, or relinquish the property and obtain a refund from the authority of purchase payments made to date.

He indicated, however, that old housing units now on a corner of the site will not be cleared away for about two years.

N. Marin Water Topic Of Meet

Directors of the North Marin Water District will meet tonight in Santa Rosa with the Petaluma City Council and the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors to discuss North Marin's future water supply.

The meeting will delay the regular district meeting, scheduled for tonight, until Thursday night.

Under discussion will be the Russian River water project which would supply North Marin via an aqueduct from the river at the Wohler intake by way of Santa Rosa, Cotati and Petaluma.

Redwood High Prom To Be Held In S.F.

Yielding to heavy pressure from a large delegation of Redwood High School parents, the Tamalpais Union High School District Board last night agreed to permit the Redwood Senior Prom to be held next June in San Francisco.

Trustees declared the dance, to be held at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, is "not to be considered a district-sponsored event," but rather a senior class function sponsored by the parents.

The board also ruled that teachers are not to be obligated to supervise the dance, but may accept such duty upon invitation. A final stipulation was that Redwood seniors must, by majority vote, approve the transfer of funds raised for the senior prom to a special committee to be formed later. The committee may or may not be made up entirely of parents, trustees indicated.

The district administration council recently adopted a policy that no school dance except the senior prom may be held off-campus, with the latter required to be held within the county. Junior proms were exempted from the on-campus edict for this year only.

On Nov. 2, trustees said they could find no reason to reverse or modify the council's decision. Redwood parents protested on the ground that plans were already well under way for the senior prom in San Francisco, and claimed principal Donald Kreps had given them the go-ahead.

CHURCHILL HAS INDISPOSITION — 'NOT STROKE'

LONDON (UPI)—Sir Winston Churchill is "indisposed," it was announced today.

A spokesman at his London home said Churchill had to cancel a planned meeting with West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer tonight.

The former prime minister will be 85 Nov. 30. Any "indisposition" at his age is cause for concern.

2 Inmates In Quentin Fight

A brief fist fight between two San Quentin inmates this morning in the prison's counseling office sent one to the prison hospital with a broken nose.

The two men are Cesario Flores, 29, serving a life sentence for kidnapping and rape in Los Angeles County, and George Clancy, 20, serving a one-year-to-life sentence from Madera County for demolishing a jail, attempted escape and second degree robbery.

The 10:30 a.m. fight lasted about two minutes before prison counselors pulled the two apart. Clancy went to the hospital with a fractured nose. Flores was placed in a holding cell.

Capt. Virgil O'Malley, correctional officer, said he didn't know what had caused the fight.

Compromise Urged For Saucelito Canal Plan

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission last night voted to ask the city council to push the Marin County Board of Supervisors for a "compromise" plan on the Saucelito Canal in Richardson Bay.

The Mill Valley commission previously had directed a letter to Mrs. Mary Summers, county planning director, which was read yesterday at the county planning commission meeting.

Chairman Charles P. Guichard said the letter attacked what was called Mrs. Summer's "compromise" on the Richardson Bay Master Plan as it concerned the Saucelito Canal. Guichard said the commission feels property owners in the Bay Flats are being paid too much attention.

He said the commission feels Mill Valley should have an open water plan, and not just a channel through a "filled-in valley."

He said the letter to the council will request that the board of supervisors be asked to seek condemnation against property owners or trade them dry land for water property.

"How does it happen he's making this report?" asked Supervisor Vera L. Schultz.

"We asked for it," said Castro. "You weren't here that day. But here we're working on juvenile hall and they aren't going to give us a report. There's lots of things we need to do out there, may have to spend $20,000 just for repairs..."

And with no one to answer their questions about the county jail study, the supervisors launched into a general discussion of juvenile hall plans.

Mill Valley Groups Queried About Clubhouse Wishes

Social groups, service clubs and women's organizations in Mill Valley last night were asked to tell the Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission what kind of activities they want at the city golf clubhouse.

They were asked to tell not only what they want to get out of the club, but what they would like to put into it.

Commission chairman Charles P. Guichard said the commission made this decision because of several discussions on "occasional disturbances at the club, and because the city loses about $2,000 in the operation."

He said groups could communicate with Commissioner Joseph L. Brewster.

Irish Ambassador Son Going Home

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Irish Ambassador John J. Hearne announced today he is sending his son, David, back to Ireland, as a result of an auto accident which killed a woman.

In a brief statement issued through the Irish Embassy, Hearne said his 21-year-old son, who has had several brushes with police, will continue his education in his native land.

A car driven by young Hearne struck and killed a 54-year-old woman last Wednesday on a Washington street. Young Hearne claimed diplomatic immunity, and District of Columbia authorities said they were powerless even to hold an inquest into the woman's death.

Property Eyed For Clubhouse

Details of a property offer with clubhouse site possibilities in Forest Knolls will be put before the next meeting of the San Geronimo Valley Assn. at the Lagunitas School Dec. 21, it was learned today. The dimensions are 100 by 200 feet.

A meeting was scheduled for last night but there was no quorum. The fact of an available property was made known during discussion, but price has not yet been revealed.

The association already owns property fronting on Sir Francis Drake boulevard, but it is felt by some to be too noisy for a clubhouse site. Proponents of the alternative site hope that an exchange might be possible.

GAS

We are sorry to have to inform you that we are being forced by Union Oil Co. to raise our posted prices on regular gasoline from 29.9c to 34.9c per gallon and on Ethyl gasoline from 34.9c to 38.9c per gallon.

Union Oil Company's district manager of retail sales gave us a choice of either raising our prices by 8 p. m., Monday, November 16, or having our contract cancelled. So we raised our prices.

However, we are not beaten yet. We are going to discount to you the same amount per gallon from this inflated price. So actually the price of regular gas will be the same as 29.9c per gallon. We wish we could be above board in trying to stay competitive and we have tried but can't.

We have also been informed that you, the people of San Rafael, do not want competitive prices with other communities in the Bay Area. We do not think this is so. However, we may be wrong. We would like to hear from you... the public.

If we are wrong, we will stop discounting and we will sell at inflated San Rafael prices.

Hope to see you soon!

Apartments along Canal street in San Rafael will be allowed to go higher, but more ground space must be reserved for landscaping.

This in effect is the ruling handed down last night by the city council, which upheld a planning commission recommendation to rezone the Canal street area.

Planners Say Annex Study Experts' Job

A request from the Belvedere City Council to study a proposal to annex all or part of Tiburon was returned to the council by the Belvedere Planning Commission last night with the explanation that the commission feels it is not equipped to make such a study.

The council had previously received the request from the Tiburon Chamber of Commerce.

If the council desires a study, the commission recommended money be appropriated to hire experts in the field.

"This needs careful study, particularly the tax situation, before such a move has any weight with the voters," said Chairman George Goddard.

Because official papers on the proposed westside development by Belvedere Land Co. had not been filed in time, this request will be considered at an adjourned meeting next Monday, at 8 p.m. in the Belvedere Community Hall.

Also postponed was a request from the Belvedere Recreation Commission that certain land on San Rafael avenue be set aside for a public park. This land falls within the limits of the proposed westside development.

Late Call

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—A woman caller asked police to look for her husband.

"How long has he been gone?" she was asked.

"Thirty-four years," she answered, explaining that she wanted to marry again and to be sure it was legal.

After an hour and a half of arguments the city fathers voted 4 to 0 for rezoning. David Menary Jr., sitting for the first time as councilman, joined his three colleagues in approving the rezoning. Councilman Louis H. Baar was absent.

At present, zoning of the area permits two habitable stories over a garage with maximum height of 30 feet. Structures may occupy no more than 60 per cent of land space. However, cars may park in the open area.

The city planning commission decided to rezone, largely because parked cars are cluttering up the open spaces around the apartment buildings.

The new zone (special multiple residential) allows three habitable stories over a garage to a maximum of 40 feet. Lot coverage remains at 60 per cent. However, the big difference is that offstreet parking must be included in the 60 per cent, leaving 40 per cent of open space for landscaping and recreational areas.

Street May Not Be Named For Ex-Official After All

Charles A. Rowe, former Corte Madera town councilman, may not have a street named for him after all.

The town planning commission last month recommended to the town council that a short street connecting the south end of Willow avenue with Chapman drive be designated Rowe street.

But a letter opposing the idea was received by the council from Mrs. David Zita of 351 Willow. The street, she wrote, previously was considered part of Willow avenue and was designated as such. She urged the name be restored.

Town Manager Arthur H. Brandow said the council dropped the name Willow about one year ago. He didn't say why. Councilmen couldn't recall the action, but took his word for it without searching the minutes.

"I have talked to people in the area," said Councilman Walter S. Long, "and they feel it is logical to continue Willow

Private Club Rejected By San Rafael Council

A private tennis and swim club, proposed for the West End area of San Rafael, was turned down last night by the city council after an overwhelming protest by neighborhood residents.

Developer John J. Farrar had won planning commission approval for tennis courts and a pool between Scenic avenue and Fifth avenue at J street. The city council, however, unanimously overruled the planning commission and rejected the private club.

Mayor John F. McInnis said he feels a tennis club can be a credit to any community. "But one does not impose such a club against the will of residents."

Councilman Fred E. Jensen moved to deny a permit for the commercial development in the residentially zoned area. He said he would abide by the desire of the people who live in the neighborhood (his own home is nearby). Councilman Charles W. Aby (also a West End resident), seconded the motion. He suggested a tennis club would be better suited in a "younger neighborhood" whose residents would be more likely to be interested in such activities.

Attorney Thomas P. Boyd led a protest delegation that jammed the city council chamber and overflowed into the corridors. Boyd presented a protest petition with more than 700 signatures.

Applause greeted each protestant as he got up to present his objections to the private club. They complained of noise, traffic hazards, and drainage problems which they fear would arise.

Floyd R. Middagh, chief criminal deputy in the sheriff's office, spoke in opposition to the project as a resident of the area. So did City Atty Albert E. Bagshaw, speaking as a citizen living in the neighborhood.

San Mateo Span To Be Enlarged

SACRAMENTO (AP)—The Toll Bridge Authority has agreed to spend 30½ million dollars in San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge tolls to double the size of the San Mateo-Hayward Bridge.

The project, authorized by the 1959 Legislature, was approved by the state board Monday.

Sign Law Pends In Corte Madera

The Corte Madera Town Council last night introduced an ordinance which would require a written permit for erection, alteration or use of any sign within the town.

Enactment, recommended in a letter from the town planning commission, is expected at the next council meeting, Dec. 7.

Sign permits would be issued by William G. McBride, town zoning administrator. Applicants would have to submit duplicate scale drawings of any proposed signs of less than 100 square feet. The zoning ordinance now requires duplicate drawings of signs exceeding that size.

Appeal to the planning commission from a decision of the zoning administrator would be permitted within 30 days of his ruling.

Town Manager Arthur H. Brandow said McBride had suggested a $3 fee be charged for each application. He said he agreed there should be a fee provision, but recommended the charge be "zero dollars to start with, to encourage compliance." The council concurred.

Violation of the ordinance would be a misdemeanor, punishable by a $500 fine or a six-month county jail sentence, or both.

Turning to street matters, the council authorized expenditure of $2,830 to install approximately 240 feet of 18-inch concrete drainage pipe and 480 feet of curbs and gutters on Oakdale avenue, between Chapman drive and Willow avenue.

Ghilotti Brothers of San Rafael will do the work as an adjunct to its contract for reconstruction of Willow from Tamalpais drive to a point near Chapman.

The San Rafael engineering firm of George S. Nolte was hired at $1,400 to prepare plans for improvement of Oakdale between Chapman and Eastman avenue. Councilmen decided to wait until Nolte completes a preliminary survey before setting the future paving width.

The council also:

1. Asked Brandow to write the Corte Madera Sanitary District Board that the council opposes expenditure of town funds for relocation of two sewer bypass pipes which discharge into San Clemente Creek, east of Highway 101.

2. Refused to accept off-site improvements in Unit 2A of Mariners Cove pending receipt of a one-year maintenance bond from the developer, San Clemente Land Co.

3. Authorized extension of the town's fire signal system to the home of Volunteer Fireman Felix V. Pili in Mariners Cove and asked the fire department to consider the cost of installing a repeater fire horn in that area.

4. Rescinded an order requiring town department heads to attend the first regular council meeting of the month. Henceforth they will attend at Brandow's discretion.

5. Approved warrants totaling $23,529.18.

Richardson Bay Sanitary Plant Is Rated High

Directors of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District last night learned that the district's Trestle Glen treatment plant is operating far above state standards.

Consulting engineer John H. Jenks told directors the treatment plant has just finished its first year of operation, and that its performance is far more efficient than the standards set by the state Water Pollution Board.

The directors also learned that petitions seeking annexation to the district have been completed in Little Reed Heights, and are now being circulated in Tiburon Properties. Secretary Samuel A. Fletcher said annexation proceedings soon would be started by residents of the north end of Bay Vista drive, Strawberry.

Fletcher said after the areas have been annexed, the property owners will have to petition again for actual construction of service lines, which they will have to pay for.

Directors further discussed a temporary contract with residents of Harbor Point, Strawberry, but proposed construction there will have to be brought up to district standards before a contract can be agreed upon, Fletcher reported.

Students To Name Subdivision Roads

A contest for naming 13 new streets in Unit 5 of The Reelands, Tiburon Peninsula home development, has started for seventh and eighth grade pupils of Reed School, Tiburon.

Mrs. Mary J. Burrell, Reelands developer, is offering $50 to the student council for the school's participation, plus $3 to each pupil whose entry is accepted. The contest will end Dec. 15.

Names significant to Marin County, including historical areas, early dwellers, native trees and shrubs, are particularly sought.

Judges will be Paul R. Stouffer, superintendent of Reed School District, David Van Pelt of the county planning staff and Mrs. Burrell.

TEACHER SPEAKER—Kenneth R. Brown, professional services executive for the California Teachers Assn., will speak at a meeting of the San Rafael Teachers Assn. at 4 p.m. tomorrow at San Rafael High School.

Ross School Board Airs Play Program

The summer recreation activities program for Ross was discussed last night by the Ross School Board, which the Parent-Teacher Assn. has asked for financial aid for next summer's program.

Charles Doyle of the P-TA committee reported on the program of last summer. He said the P-TA would ask for financial aid from the school board and the Ross Town Council.

Supt. Stephen Parodi said the program for 1960 would be substantially the same as last year, including arts and crafts, sewing, typing, swimming and tennis.

The board also discussed the disposition of parents toward a foreign languages program for third, fourth and fifth grades, after a report by Mrs. Milton Gabbs that interest ran high.

The parents, she said, were almost evenly divided as to whether they wanted Spanish or French taught. The board decided to study the possibility further.

World corn production in 1958 is estimated at a record 7,300,000,000 bushels.

POLICY CANCELED

Defiant Woman Freed In Insurance Wrangle

An order of release signed by Marin Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating has restored freedom to Martha Ann DeBorger, 35, jailed since Sept. 17 for refusal to give up a $10,000 insurance policy on the life of her ex-husband.

It was a case where the court had its way as to substance, while Mrs. DeBorger scored a sort of paper victory.

The breaking of the deadlock was made possible because the New York Insurance Co. had canceled the policy held by Mrs. DeBorger, issuing a new double-indemnity policy to Maj. Arthur DeBorger of the Air Force.

Action by the company followed considerable cogitation over what could be done to resolve the deadlock. Mrs. DeBorger vowed she'd spend the rest of her life in jail rather than comply with a court order directing her to give up the policy. Because of her determination, behind-the-scenes efforts were begun, to achieve some other solution.

The most obvious course, it was learned today, didn't meet with approval of the company lawyers. To declare the policy missing and issue a duplicate was deemed inappropriate because its general whereabouts were known. That was why Mrs. DeBorger was in jail.

Finally the idea of cancellation was given approval—though not by Mrs. DeBorger. Released from San Francisco Women's Prison last night, she was reported today to feel that only her husband's ultimate death could bring a final legal test as to which policy prevailed. "We won't really know if I've lost till my husband is deceased," she said.

Judge Keating not only had no comment today but indicated he'd made no comment, and wouldn't make any.

Mrs. DeBorger said she hadn't any idea of where to go and added: "I have no plans, no money, no job. If I apply for a job and they ask my experience, all I can say is 'I've been an Air Force wife.'"

NO COWARD, HE—Oregon Gov. Mark O. Hatfield, whose state produced a big part of the cranberry crop suspected of being contaminated by weed killer, has not fallen victim to the great berry scare. He's seen downing cranberries at a luncheon in New York, where he addressed the National Republican Club last night. (AP Wire-photo)

Few Berries Tainted, Tests Find

WASHINGTON (AP)—Of the 3,300,000 pounds of cranberries tested so far, 80,000 pounds have shown traces of a weed killer that causes cancer in rats.

Those statistics came from Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming last night. But at the same time he announced action had been started to seize 25 tainted cases of canned cranberries grown in Wisconsin and shipped to Nashville, Tenn.

"The great majority of the tests for the weed killer has shown no contamination," Flemming said. "This is encouraging, and a trend that I hope continues as the testing proceeds."

Flemming will meet with cranberry industry leaders tomorrow. He said he is extremely hopeful the growers can come up with a plan to make it possible "to segregate contaminated from uncontaminated berries on a larger scale than is now possible through laboratory testing lot."

Already, he said, Ocean Spray Cranberries, Inc., has voluntarily withdrawn several million pounds of berries from the market to await analysis by government chemists. Ocean Spray is a cooperative of growers that handles 75 per cent of the nation's cranberry crop.

The Nashville shipment was the second batch of Wisconsin cranberries found to contain the weed killer, aminotriazole. Previously, the only tainted berries round were grown in Washington and Oregon.

U.S. Probes Fatal Gulf Plane Crash

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—Federal authorities today began a determined effort to learn what caused a Miami-to-Los Angeles airliner to plummet into the Gulf of Mexico, killing all 42 persons on board.

Civil Aeronautics Board investigator Charles S. Collar said "There are no indications as yet of sabotage," but added, "We don't have enough to go on toward establishing cause."

Investigators from four federal agencies — the Federal Bureau of Investigation, Post Office, Federal Aviation Agency and the CAB—plus airline officials are cooperating in investigating the crash.

NO HINT OF TROUBLE

The doomed National Airlines DC7B was on the second leg of a three-airline "interchange" flight from Miami to Los Angeles when it dropped into the gulf yesterday without any advance hint of trouble.

The mangled bodies of nine victims—seven men and two women—were brought ashore at Gulfport, Miss., early today. One of the bodies had been mutilated by sharks, the others apparently were smashed by impact.

Winds of 35 m.p.h. lashed the gulf throughout the night and searchers were warned to expect heavy seas today. Small craft warnings were up through the night from Texas to the Florida coasts.

CHANCES LESSEN

The heavy weather at the crash site, the sighting of a school of sharks in the area and the mutilation of one victim by sharks greatly lessened chances of finding the remaining victims of the crash.

Yesterday's crash was the first fatal accident recorded by National since the St. Valentine's Day accident in 1953 which killed 46 persons. Both disasters followed a Friday the 13th.

Officials said the plane had undergone a rigid checkout before leaving Miami. It was equipped with high frequency radio transmitters, one of which could have been operated if the plane had a power failure. It did not have a "mayday" or emergency channel.

Most commercial airliners do not have a mayday channel.

Lt. (j.g.) David R. Markey, 24, skipper of the 95-foot Coast Guard patrol boat that brought in the bodies, said none of the victims brought to shore was found wearing a life jacket.

Life preservers and life rafts, one partially inflated, along with several hundred pounds of debris and mail were brought to shore and placed under guard for investigators.

from the power plant blew up in front of him.

Fauskee never made it home from the police station. Gov. Orville Freeman ordered out the local guard unit after he had been advised of the situation. Six patrols of 50 guardsmen roamed the darkened streets to check possible pilaging and fires.

There were no serious casualties but two power plant workmen—John T. Anderson and Gerald Jost — suffered flash burns about the face and arms and were taken to the hospital.

With repair crews working through the day and most of the night, complete power was returned early today.

Emergency quarters set up for chilled residents at the armory, an elementary school and two churches attracted only a few persons.

Many residents crowded into five outlying motels and a downtown hotel, served by steam heat.

THEY HAD FRIENDS

Aid Pours Into Town Hit By Blackout In Cold Wave

WORTHINGTON, Minn. (AP)—No one panicked. When it was all over, the 9,500 people of this southwestern Minnesota town acknowledged they had friends.

Within minutes after an explosion ripped out all the city's power and much of its heat, in subzero weather, offers of help began to roll in.

Portable generators were rushed from neighboring towns and set up at nursing homes, the city's three water wells and some schools. Even a greenhouse got one.

The municipal hospital switched to its own power units and was not affected. Repair crews quickly provided power for the Southwestern Minnesota Crippled Children's Hospital-School.

Civil defense director Ray Schisler said "We needed all the help we got and we got it before we could ask."

The power was lost at 9:40 a.m. yesterday when an explosion ripped wires between plant turbines and the distribution system.

Help Underdeveloped, West Europe Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Secretary of State Christian A. Herter said today the time has come for a prosperous Western Europe to share more fully in helping underdeveloped nations in their efforts at economic advancement.

"This is, perhaps, the most creative and critical area of world leadership today," the cabinet official told the fifth annual NATO Parliamentary Conference.

Western Europe has achieved unprecedented prosperity and with it, the opportunity for "broader and expanding the world leadership which Western Europe has traditionally exercised," Herter said.

This prosperity has contributed, he continued, to the present "substantial deficit" of the United States in its international accounts. "Naturally we are concerned to correct this imbalance," the secretary said.

Herter said the United States is gratified at the favorable response of its European allies in removing some restrictions on American products. He said this country now hopes they will help slow down the flow of dollars abroad by taking over some of the foreign aid spending that has been America's self-imposed responsibility.

The secretary used the NATO forum to make clear U. E. support for liberal trade policies and to spike once more speculation that this country might trim its commitments to NATO's military establishment.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Coastal Marin Is Due For Vast Future Development

Western, coastal Marin is picturesque. It is rural. It is quiet and peaceful.

Once we might even have referred to it as backward. Nowadays it is thought better to say underdeveloped.

But it will not always be so. In fact, it's probably later than we think. The day when an on-rush of development occurs may be just around the corner.

There are several reasons why we must expect this.

First, as viewed from San Francisco, the Marin coast is the nearest large undeveloped area to San Francisco. As population growth waves roll out from the big city, they must soon roll over the Marin coastal strip from Stinson Beach and Bolinas up to Inverness and Pt. Reyes Station.

Second, the State Division of Highways is completing "reconnaissance surveys" to find a more direct route for State Route No. 1 (The Shoreline Highway) from Highway 101 over to Stinson Beach. When this project is actually constructed, Stinson Beach may be closer—as the motorist drives—to San Francisco than San Rafael is now. A land boom and a population explosion in coastal Marin will certainly follow.

Will this be bad?

Is growth necessarily synonymous with ruin?

We don't think so; we think it quite possible to develop coastal Marin and preserve its charm. Marin County has rather rigid planning restrictions and rather rigid enforcement of them.

We think development of the coastal area in conformance with present controls would be appropriate and valuable. Property improvements would help broaden our tax base. We are inclined to welcome anything that would broaden our tax base.

The construction of a new broad, fast highway will open up the scenic areas for easy access and enjoyment by more people than ever before.

While there are people who would preserve nature's beauties from the public, we have always thought it more proper to preserve them for public enjoyment.

We will welcome the "opening" of coastal, west Marin when that day comes.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

MORE THAN PRAYERS NEEDED

An inexperienced boxer noticed that other contestants stopped for a short prayer just after entering the ring. He asked his trainer if it really did any good to pray before a boxing match.

"Yes, it does," the trainer said, "provided, of course, you know how to box."

God expects each of us to go through the painstaking effort of developing the natural talents He has given us, not look to Him to make up for our neglect.

Every quality of mind, heart and soul that the Lord has entrusted to you is important in His divine plan. All of them have been given to you for a purpose much bigger than yourself. They should be cultivated and used for the temporal and eternal interests of others as well as your own.

Strive diligently to bring into play your natural ability, and you will fulfill the old axiom: "Pray as if everything depended on God and work as if everything depended on yourself."

"If we ask anything according to His will, He hears us."

(1 John 5:14)

In depending on You, O Jesus, let me not fail to do my part.

What's Needed Is A Committee To Do Away With Committees

NEW YORK (AP) — One test of a successful man today is how many committees he can serve on without shortening his life.

We live in an age of togetherness, and our lives are largely ruled by committee-made decisions.

To have an active social life today, you almost have to serve on a committee dedicated to one cause or another. One's importance in the community often indeed is measured by the number of committees one serves on.

But committee work is a thing a fellow has to learn by personal experience whether he can take in stride or should leave strictly alone.

Serving on too many committees undoubtedly has killed by aggravation and overwork many men in their middle years who might otherwise have lived to a graceful and serene old age. They had become addicts. They didn't know how to handle it.

Here is one man's story: "The Neighborhood Assn. asked me to serve on a committee to improve the beach. I said yes. Then I joined a lodge and a church, and they both soon put me on committees."

"We were invited to a lot of parties, and it seemed like at each party they organized a new committee, and I was always asked to join, and I did."

"I joined a committee to send books to the Hottentots, a committee to save the barn owl, and a committee to improve the railroad's commuter service."

"I joined the mayor's committee to bring new industry into town, and I joined another committee to keep the town zoned only for private homes."

"At the end of the first year I guess I must have been about the best known man in town, and they were even talking about running me for mayor."

"I was getting three hours sleep a night, making an average of 37 phone calls a day from my office on committee work, and living on pep pills. I was completely neglecting my family and my job."

"WELL, THE WHOLE thing collapsed last week. My boss fired me, my wife ran away and my two children were sent to reform school."

"Naturally, I thought my friends on all those committees would stand by me. But do you know what I found out? For every fair-weather friend you make by serving on committees, you make at least two all-weather enemies."

"MY NEIGHBORS NOW are organizing a committee to ask me to sell the house and move away. It's a funny thing. That is the only committee in town I haven't been asked to join."

A survey of available rental housing in Sausalito was to be requested of the Marin County Rental Advisory Board by Sausalito City Council, Mayor George Keeney announced at the close of a heated public hearing on rent control in Central School.

Marin County's basic tax rate was the fourth lowest among the 58 counties of California, according to figures made public by County Auditor Leon A. de Lisle. The Marin County rate was $1.40 per $100 assessed valuation; Sonoma County gets, $2.56; San Mateo County, $1.85.

Supervisor Delay Is Disappointing

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

After attending the Marin County Supervisors meeting, this afternoon (Nov. 10) I, an elderly citizen and NATIVE of Bolinas must express my personal disappointment that our Supervisors have again delayed, and possibly discouraged, what I consider a most desirable project — the building of an attractive village for Elderly Citizens.

I visualize it as a distinct asset in many ways. Built on 50 acres of what is today deserted pasture on the board mesa, two miles distant from the town — landscaped and planted with trees and gardens (everything grows so fast in this rich soil, and mild climate!) — attractive cottages surrounding dining hall and assembly rooms, with hobby-shops, etc., life for oldsters could be ideal.

Furthermore, from a practical viewpoint, the sewage disposal plant which would be a necessary feature of the tract, as well as the further development of our water supply, are features not to be overlooked. Bolinas must in any event, improve these utilities and at considerable extra taxation, unless we take advantage of Alcan Pacific's offer that we be included in the improvements which they must install, if they do procure the property. Since three months will now pass before the Supervisors will again consider the granting of the permit it is possible that our chance to profit by that offer may not again occur.

The many letters and objections I listened to today, which stress the doubts and suspicions of our ultra-conservative element, recall vividly to me other discussions of similar nature. Thirty years ago, when my parents bought the Juan Briones property and had it subdivided into what is today the Granda Vista Tract this same conservative element was bitterly opposed. Today it is a desirable asset to Bolinas with its attractive beach cottages and pleasant community spirit.

Volumes could be written by a good satirist around the many situations that have caused upheavals in our midst! I believe I love Bolinas as much as anyone, but I realize that the tide of progress cannot be held back, although it can be directed. What could be more desirable than the establishment of this attractive haven for elderly citizens? There is ample space on the many acres of mesa and rolling hillsides adjacent to Bolinas to make other retired Americans as happy as are the contented (albeit smug) element that lament any change in the status quo. If the present development fails to materialize something not as desirable may take its place possibly an ordinary housing project! This I hope I may be spared living to see.

Eisenhower Facing Busiest Part Of His Tenure As President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, pushing 70 and with only 14 months to go in the White House, is heading into what may be the busiest period of his presidency. He is setting himself a fast and strenuous pace.

His announcement that he will visit nine nations in Europe, Asia and Africa in December — was just the beginning. He'll wind up that trip with a three-day Western summit conference in Paris.

It may or may not be of significance that Eisenhower — who has had a heart attack, an intestinal operation, and a minor stroke — made this announcement only after getting a resounding okay on a weekend medical check-up.

EARLY NEXT year the President who was 69 Oct. 14 and will be over 70 when he leaves office Jan. 20, 1961, may have to return overseas for a summit meeting with Premier Nikita Khrushchev. Still on tap after that is the President's promised trip to the Soviet Union.

Also lying ahead of him is the presidential campaign of 1960. Although the Constitution makes this second term his last one, he will probably campaign to get a Republican elected his successor.

But these activities are all extras.

IN BETWEEN times he has a hatful of work in his regular job in the presidency: keeping the country running. This is the grinding part of his task.

Between now and the time he leaves Dec. 4 on his three-continent trip he must put in the final work on the budget, or encyclopedia of expenses, which his administration will offer Congress when it returns in January 1960.

This is no simple task, since it involves wrangles among his own various department and agency heads over how big a piece of budget pie each is entitled to. Work on this budget has been going on since last summer.

It involves more than just expenses. His 1960 programs — the final act of his presidency — must be based on it: Their size, cost and reach. He has already revealed that his 1960 theme song, as in 1959, will be economy.

SINCE HE IS winding up his presidency and no doubt wants to end it with the greatest and most memorable success possible, his two biggest problems in 1960, overshadowing all others, seem to be these:

Politics — how to set a Republican record that will get voter approval for his party; and peace — how to leave the world a quieter place than he found it when he moved into the White House in January 1953.

Redwood High Pupils Get Shock Treatment By 3R School Chief

A REDWOOD HIGH School class was given something of a shock treatment recently by James W. Kirchanski, director of the 3R Schools in San Rafael.

The blunt-spoken educator was invited to address a senior class in problems of American democracy. His topic: "The importance of education in a capitalistic society."

Kirchanski warned the youngsters that within 15 years automation, by precluding general mass employment, will become a major problem in the United States.

"In a competitive society such as ours," he told the class, "you must have a specialty to sell on the open market."

Beyond that, he said, today's young people must have a general background broad enough to permit their evaluation in terms of something besides dollars and cents. He urged the class to think of education as more than a preparation for earning money.

Eager to hear what the youngsters had to say for themselves, Kirchanski spoke briefly, then opened the session to lively give-and-take discussion.

"Why," asked one boy, "should I continue my education beyond high school? All I want to do is work."

Kirchanski wanted to know specifically what type of work the youth felt he was qualified to perform. The boy couldn't answer.

"That," said Kirchanski, "is a malady of today's teen-agers. They want to work, but they have nothing to offer."

He told the questioner he was welcome to apply for employment at the 3R Schools. Then, one by one, he went through a list of positions for which there may be openings. The boy acknowledged he couldn't qualify for any of them.

"You couldn't even qualify to be my janitor!" Kirchanski shot back.

"The kids were very receptive," he reported later. An understatement, no doubt.

COLLEGE OF MARIN has blossomed out with so many standing committees (and subcommittees thereof) that it's getting almost impossible to write a brief, comprehensible news story about their activities.

How would YOU report that the board of trustees directed the committee on committees to ask the teacher workload subcommittee of the committee on certificated employees welfare to undertake an important study in cooperation with the student activities subcommittee of the committee on student welfare, then report back to the board through the committee on committees?

IT CAN be done, but it takes some thought.

Try it sometime, then you'll understand why the guy who's pictured above combs his hair with a face cloth.

H. KOCH AND Sons, Corte Madera luggage firm, had its big flagpole painted about 10 days ago. The job was done by an expert, someone with "a specialty to sell on the open market" (if you'll excuse a repeat of Kirchanski's quote).

The painter was Flagpole Kelly, well-known brushslinger and reputed holder of the world's flagpole sitting record. He is not to be confused with that other celebrated "pole-cate," Shipwreck Kelly.

"Flagpole" said he captured the sitting title from "Shipwreck" in Miami, Fla., in 1939. Elapsed time: six months and four days. We'll have to take his word for it.

A press release from the Koch firm said "Flagpole" was "called out of retirement by needy flagpoles everywhere and is presently touring the country, applying the necessary beauty treatments."

His treatment of the Koch pole took him only 20 minutes. If he keeps that up, he'll get the nickname of "Flagpole" (Speedy Gonzales) Kelly.

Teachers Want To Be Relieved Of All School Work Except Teaching

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Members of the State Senate Fact Finding Committee on Governmental Administration have managed to shoot some holes in some of the standard arguments as to why school administrators should be paid rather fat salaries.

The committee's staff conducted a survey and discovered that 635 school districts pay superintendents between $10,000 and $15,000 a year; 135 pay between $15,000 and $20,000; another 16 districts pay $20,000-$25,000 and five pay above $25,000.

Sen. Stanley Arnold (D-Susanville), chairman, said this survey, along with studies of other administrative salaries, indicated "a very high proportion of highly paid staff before we get to the teacher level."

ARNOLD'S committee recently heard a number of witnesses who are representatives of various school administrator groups. Generally, these witnesses stated strong opposition to any move by the state to set up a salary schedule for superintendents and other administrators. Most agreed there should be more administrators than at present.

Arthur Corey, executive secretary of the California Teachers Association, said some teachers have to spend time collecting the milk fund, keeping attendance records, issuing and receiving library books and taking care of cafeteria funds.

"Teachers wish to be relieved of special work for individual students in order to concentrate on class work," he said. "They want specialists to work on problems of attendance, behavior, health and guidance. They want to be relieved of administrative detail involved in scheduling, securing supplies, and equipment, paying bills and managing the physical plant."

COREY IS correct that the classroom teacher should not be involved in paying bills and buying supplies. However, it would appear there must be a monetary limit somewhere on just how specialized this teaching business can be.

It is not too difficult to imagine, under Corey's plans for the optimum education program, where a classroom teacher might have administrative assistants running around the room, checking to see if pupils are present and behaving, passing out papers, and the like.

ON THE MATTER of salaries, Wallace W. Hall, associate superintendent of public instruction, said administrators must be paid enough money to keep them from forsaking the field for higher-paid endeavors.

This argument, which has become a standard with the educationists, drew little sympathy from one committee member, Sen. George Miller Jr. (D-Martinez). Miller said any profession which had a large turnover because of salary must be paying too little. Conversely, he said, any profession with little or no turnover because of salary must be paying adequate, or more than adequate salaries.

"Do you know of any one administrator who left the field of professional education because he wasn't paid enough?" Miller asked Hall.

"I do know of one or two who went into business," Hall said. "I don't know if the salary was too low but it may have been a factor."

"I think you have put some words down here that are not supported by facts," Miller concluded.

GOOD-HUMORED FAREWELL—General Hugh A. Parker (center), retiring commander of Western Air defense Force, was "Lefty" throughout a farewell dinner given him last night by the Novato Chamber of Commerce. Chuckling over a joke with Gen. Parker are Brig. Gen. Charles R. Bond (left), commander of the 28th Air Division, and Lee Wise, chamber of commerce president.

Novato Bids Farewell To General 'Lefty'

By CARLETON WILLIAMS

Novato said goodbye to "Lefty" Parker.

The big game hunter, raconteur and commander of the Western Air Defense Force, who appears on the Air Force rolls as Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Parker, was given a farewell dinner by the Novato Chamber of Commerce at Ricketts' Ranch on Nov. 17.

General Parker and his wife, the former Janet Baker, will leave Hamilton Air Force Base, their home for two years, for San Antonio, Tex., his "adopted" home. His retirement is official Nov. 30.

Man Arrested For Pulling Knife In Bar

Frank E. Molles, 21, of McNear's Brick Yard, was arrested by San Rafael police early today after he allegedly pulled a switchblade knife on a bartender, helped himself to two bottles and served the liquor to himself and two companions.

Charles J. Capelli, owner of the Flat Iron Bar at 724 B street, said he had refused to serve the three men because they already had more than their share.

The knife was opened when Molles reached across the bar for the bottles, Capelli said. Franklin D. Davis, 26, of 25 Cedar avenue, Kentfield, and Jackie E. Young, 22, of Carmel Hotel San Rafael urged Molles to use the knife Capelli added.

The men were leaving as police arrived. Molles, who police said refused to cooperate with them, was arrested on charges of assault with a deadly weapon, disturbing the peace, resisting arrest and carrying a concealed switchblade knife.

Davis and Young were arrested on charges of disturbing the peace.

Last Rites Slated For Mrs. Sartori

High Requiem Mass for Mrs. Adele E. Sartori, 87, of Petaluma, mother of Mrs. Evelyn Corda of Novato, will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent's Catholic Church in Petaluma.

Mrs. Sartori died Sunday in a Petaluma hospital where she had been for 12 days. She had been in good health until her last illness.

Mrs. Sartori was a native of Switzerland but had been in the United States since the age of four. She and her late husband, Arcangelo Sartori, formerly operated dairy ranches in Sonoma County.

Besides Mrs. Corda, she leaves eight other daughters, one son, two sisters, a brother, 25 grandchildren and 44 great-grandchildren.

The rosary will be recited at 8 o'clock tonight at the Sorensen Funeral Home in Petaluma.

The general's plans, after 30 years in the armed forces, are indefinite.

"First I have to become accustomed to being a civilian," he told a group of friends before the dinner. "I don't really know what it's like out there."

Among Air Force officers and their wives attending the send-off dinner were Brig. Gen. Curtis R. Low, deputy commander of the WADAF; Brig. Gen. Charles R. Bond, commander of the 28th Air Division, and Col. George Ceuleers, commander of the 78th Fighter Wing and Hamilton Air Force Base.

Lee Wise, president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce and chairman for the evening, commended the general for his part in promoting "the wonderful spirit of friendship and good will" between Novato and the Air Force Base.

"Lefty has never missed tossing out the ball at our Little League games," Wise said.

The 53-year-old general, a native of Lavonia, Ga., was graduated from the University of Georgia in 1928 and commissioned a second lieutenant on June 22, 1929.

In his years of service he has been stationed in the Philippines, New Guinea, Japan, Alaska and at numerous U.S. bases.

General Parker's decorations include the Distinguished Flying Cross, honorary pilot in the Argentine air force, the Distinguished Service Star of the Philippine Republic and assorted campaign medals and ribbons.

Among his friends in the Air Force was Gen. James G. Doolittle of Tokyo raid fame.

This is his second assignment to Hamilton. His first tour at the north Marin base was in 1950, when he served as deputy for operations of Western Air Defense Force.

"The wonderful relations that exist between the base and Novato are well known throughout the Air Force," the general said as he accepted a gift of a transistor radio and a scroll bearing the names of hundreds of his friends. "It has been one of the genuine pleasures of my life to have known all of you."

First stop on the trip to Texas, the general said, will be Roswell, N.M., where the Parkers' son, Jim, is a 19-year-old cadet at New Mexico Military Institute.

Asked his son's rank, General Parker said he was a corporal.

"That is, unless he's been busted since I last heard."

Conflicting Richardson Bay Plans Delay County Action

Property owners of Richardson Bay yesterday afternoon did what they'd been advised to do by the Marin County Planning Commission Nov. 2—presented their own idea of a Richardson Bay Master Plan.

The result was to prevent any decision by the commission at its second—and supposedly last public hearing, and the hearing was continued to a special meeting at 8 p.m. next Tuesday.

Before that time the commission staff is to try to come up with a new plan featuring "flexibility" and meeting as well the requisites of open water and flood control.

Meanwhile a progress report has been sent by Walter R. Castro, chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, to the state Small Craft Harbor Commission in Sacramento in an effort to keep the way open for acquisition of a state loan of $300,000 for dredging of the Sausalito Channel.

The county needs financial support of property owners, because by terms of the earmarked grant there must be guarantees "other than future property taxes" for repayment of the loan. The improvements are supposed in general to aid these owners, but they don't wish their specific interests impaired.

The planning commission yesterday found themselves confronted by three plans hard to reconcile: The staff plan purporting to serve the whole public interest, a "Kappas plan" previously presented by a yacht harbor developer, and a new "property owners' plan" brought in for the first time by Col. Tom E. Nowell.

On the face of it, Nowell's plan seemed to meet just what had been suggested at the first public hearing by Dr. William Upton, planning commission chairman.

But when it showed up, it seemed pretty much a composite of what most property owners aside from George Kappas felt would preserve their private holdings, and considerably at variance with the more conservative shoreline and pier-line of the staff version.

The second hearing started with reading of a series of 10 communications from individuals and organizations, the latter including the Parks and Recreation Committee of Mill Valley, the Strawberry Recreation District, the Bayview Heights Assn., and Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission, the Tiburon Coordinating Council and the City of Mill Valley.

These generally endorsed the principle of a master plan for orderly development preserving the "open water" and "floodway" angles.

Finally came Castro's letter to Sacramento reciting steps so far taken, including emergency legislation on filling and zoning, efforts toward master plan, engaging of engineering assistance and promising that within 10 days it may be possible to submit further information of means for insuring repayment of a state loan.

First to speak from the audience was attorney Wallace S. Myers, representing Kappas. He urged that Kappas has "spent several hundred thousand dollars" on his yacht harbor and "any interference will amount to a condemnation of his property and taking away a use which he has under a well-designed plan."

Kappas, said Myers, wishes to dredge his land and use it for fill rather than employing fill from somewhere else.

Then came the third plan from Nowell, who is associated with several others with lands at the southern end of the Richardson Bay bridge.

"We have drawn a plan we feel we can get the owners to get on," said Nowell. "The only one who doesn't want to join with us is Mr. Kappas. We have considered such points as open water and economic return, and we have been putting a plan together with which we could go to the board of supervisors and then go to the state."

"It wouldn't cost the county any money and it would be economically sound."

Nowell had a transparent tracing which, fitted over, showed divergencies between the property owners' plan and the staff plan—mainly that Nowell's plan had more and greater land projections toward the channel which will be dredged.

Dr. Upton wanted to know whether this would in any way jeopardize impounded waters. He was assured the new scheme "opens up more than in the Kennedy report."

Elmo Hutchison, engineer, added, "I don't think you'll have any trouble with flood control."

Mrs. Mary Summers, planning director, observed that more land was shown under private development than is now privately owned. It was brought out that the area comprises 237 acres of county-owned land and 300 acres in private hands, roughly a 2/5 to 3/5 division.

Mrs. Elizabeth Rodman of the Mill Valley City Council emphasized "the importance to us of the flood control provision" and said that she understood the staff master plan represented the "absolute minimum of open water essential to Mill Valley . . . Our plans are based on the assumption that there will be no further filling of Richardson Bay."

Speaking as an individual and a boat owner, Mrs. Marjorie Brady, member of the Sausalito City Council, expressed concern over "the appearance of what is happening to the water's edge" and wished "to go on record as in favor of open water, of great value to all property owners."

L. W. Conover, one of the property owners urged it might be possible to establish as a plan some percentage of fill as against open water.

Mrs. Margaret Azevedo of the commission suggested "some sort of formula" of broad type might be possible if a week or so were taken for further consideration.

Commissioner Niels Schultz Jr. felt it would be "almost illegal to adopt a plan with changes in mind," but he and Commissioner George Scott agreed further study was in order.

Finally Mrs. Azevedo moved and the commission approved the one-week continuance.

Ex-Marin Coach Nominated For 25-Year All-American Honors

One of the finest guys we've ever known received quite a salute this week when the University of California nominated him for Sports Illustrated Magazine's Silver Anniversary All-America Award.

He is Arleigh Williams, the former director of athletics and football coach at College of Marin, who two years ago moved on to become Dean of Men and Associate Dean of Students at the Berkeley campus.

S.I.'s awards are based on distinguished living during the 25 years intervening since college football and the essential idea is that athletics and education are joined in "the pursuit of rounded human values," according to the magazine.

The national list of 71 nominees includes a governor, several judges and outstanding personalities in all walks of life, so Arleigh is in pretty distinguished company — just where he belongs.

From this list judges will select 25 for the award next month.

Williams was All-America halfback at Cal in 1934 when he captained the Golden Bears in his third season as a first team member. He still holds the University's punting record of a 72-yard boot in a game against USC.

ARLEIGH'S distinguished career at Cal also included a varsity letter in baseball, election as permanent president of the Class of '35, and membership in Phi Delta Kappa, education honor society, Sigma Alpha, physical education honor society, and Order of the Golden Bear, senior men's service honor organization.

After graduation from Cal Arleigh coached and taught at Richmond High for six years, then served three years as Lt. Commander in the Navy during World War II.

He came to Marin in 1946 and stayed 11 years, serving as coach and athletic director for a while, dean of men, and for the final five years additionally as Director of Guidance.

COACHING - WISE, Arleigh had a couple of fair teams at Marin, but his overall record showed more losses than victories. In fact, he jokingly used to refer to himself as a character-builder rather than a maker of champions. But, Marin isn't noted in football anyway, so Williams did as well as could be expected with the material on hand.

Besides his work at the college, Williams found time to devote to community service projects, such as serving as chairman of the Marin Tuberculosis Assn., water safety program and Fairfax Red Cross Program and as director of the YMCA, Fairfax Community Chest and Marin Conservation League. He is an active Rotarian of some 12 years' standing.

Williams and his wife, Ruth, also a Cal grad, Class of '35, are parents of three children: Arleigh Jr., 21, a student at the U. of Cal campus at Davis; David, 18, currently enrolled at Cal Berkeley campus where he was a freshman basketball star last season; and Linda, 16, who plans to enter the field of education.

Williams has come a long way since his football days at Cal and this Sports Illustrated Silver Anniversary honor is quite a thrill, not only to Arleigh, but to those of us who have come to regard him as a real All-American, in every sense of the phrase.

PHIL KIRCHER of Tiburon, a member of the Sonoma County Reef-Runners skin-diving club, speared a beauty of a ling cod while on a club outing Sunday at Fort Ross. Phil's catch weighed 28 3/4 pounds and measured 38 inches in length.

It was the best catch recorded this season by the Sonoma club.

Kircher is a partner in Avella Garden Supplies Co. in San Rafael.

BOWLING

Greenbrae Lanes' 880 Scratch League, otherwise known as the "Big Daddies," rolled 19 games over 200 last Friday in one of the highest scoring sprees of the season.

Dick Treadway of Marin Bowl Coffee Shop team had three lines over 200 for a 619 total.

Ed Wahl (233) and Ted Henry (209-211) led Wilshire Towers to a high team game of 988. Ed Clinton (222), Walt Silva (213-201) and Willie Corda (212) led Wentworth Painting team to a high series of 2735.

Other high games: Tom Lococo 241, Clark Carlson 231, Ron Cox 226, Roy Peterson 226, Wally Mays 226 and Larry Olivotto 225.

Chamberlain Tops Hoop League In Scoring Average

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain's still at it, still leading the National Basketball Assn. with a 37.1 scoring average and closing fast on Elgin Baylor's total point lead.

Philadelphia's rookie Warrior has scored 371 points in 10 games compared to 446 in 13 games by Baylor, the sophomore standout of the Minneapolis Lakers. That leaves The Stilt No. 3 in the scoring race, according to statistics released today, with Cincinnati's Jack Twyman the runner-up on a 400-point total in 12 games.

Chamberlain also has a 30-plus average in rebounds, picking off 312 for a 31.2 mark. Bill Russell of Boston is the runner-up with a 23.0 average on 253 in 11 games.

BOSTON—The San Francisco Giants' first baseman Willie McCovey today was named the 1959 National League Rookie of the year by unanimous vote of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America.

McCovey needed only part of the season to bring the top rookie honors to the Giants for the second consecutive year. Ironically it was the man he bumped from the first base position, Orlando Cepeda, who won the 1958 laurels.

The 21-year-old McCovey hit .356 after joining the Giants last July 30. In 52 games he was at bat 191 times, racking up 68 hits including 13 home runs, five triples and nine doubles.

The baseball writers (three from each National League city) gave all 24 votes to Mc-

Covey according to the announcement here by the association secretary Hy Hurwitz, a Boston Globe sports writer. Balloting was conducted by mail.

The writers will name the American League Rookie of the Year Thursday.

McCovey came to the Giants from their Phoenix farm club in the Pacific Coast League. He started his major league career with a bang with a perfect day, four for four.

McCovey sparked the Giants in their unsuccessful pennant drive right up to the final week of the season.

McCovey had a 22-game hitting streak, one of the longest in the major leagues and batted in 38 runs during the season. He kept permanent possession of the first base job while Cepeda moved to an outfield berth.

McCovey was leading the Pacific Coast League in batting with a .373 average when he was called up in July. He was named the PCL's All Star first baseman in 1958.

A strapping six-foot, four-inch 195-pounder, McCovey was signed by Giant scout Alex Pompey in 1955 at Mobile, Ala., where he played high school and sandlot ball. He broke in with Sandersville of the Class D Georgia State League.

Like Cepeda the previous year, McCovey didn't figure in Giant plans when spring training opened. But Cepeda was put on the roster in mid-April while McCovey was farmed out for more experience.

McCovey is the third unanimous pick since the National League rookie balloting was instituted in 1949. The first to sweep the votes was Frank Robinson of the Cincinnati Redlegs in 1956.

Caddy Choice Irks Golfers In Australia

MELBOURNE (AP)—The international goodwill of golf underwent a strain today when some competitors complained that the host Australian team was given preferential treatment in the assignment of caddies for the Canada Cup matches beginning tomorrow.

Australia's Peter Thomson and Kel Nagle were favored over 29 rival teams from throughout the world in the seventh renewal of the international event over the Royal Melbourne Club course.

Some players said Thomson and Nagle, who already have the advantage of playing on their home course, were given an additional advantage when they were awarded professional caddies while others had to be content with amateurs.

"My boy hasn't caddied in five years," said Al Balding of Canada. "I don't know how much help I will need but I would like to have an experienced caddy."

Gary Player of South Africa said his caddy was so inexperienced he had to be told how to take out and replace his clubs in the bag.

Others including America's Sam Snead and Cary Middlecoff were similarly affected, but few changes were made.

Snead and Middlecoff previously were given university students as bag toters but later were assigned professional.

Hickey Denies Anger Caused Him To Bench Tittle Sunday

CHICAGO (AP)—San Francisco 49ers Coach Red Hickey denies he acted in anger when he yanked Y. A. Tittle from the game against the Chicago Bears Sunday. Chicago won 14-3.

"I took him out because he overthrew Hugh McElhenny and then had Billy Wilson wide open and tossed the ball right into a Bear's hand for an interception," Hickey said in an interview with a San Francisco reporter.

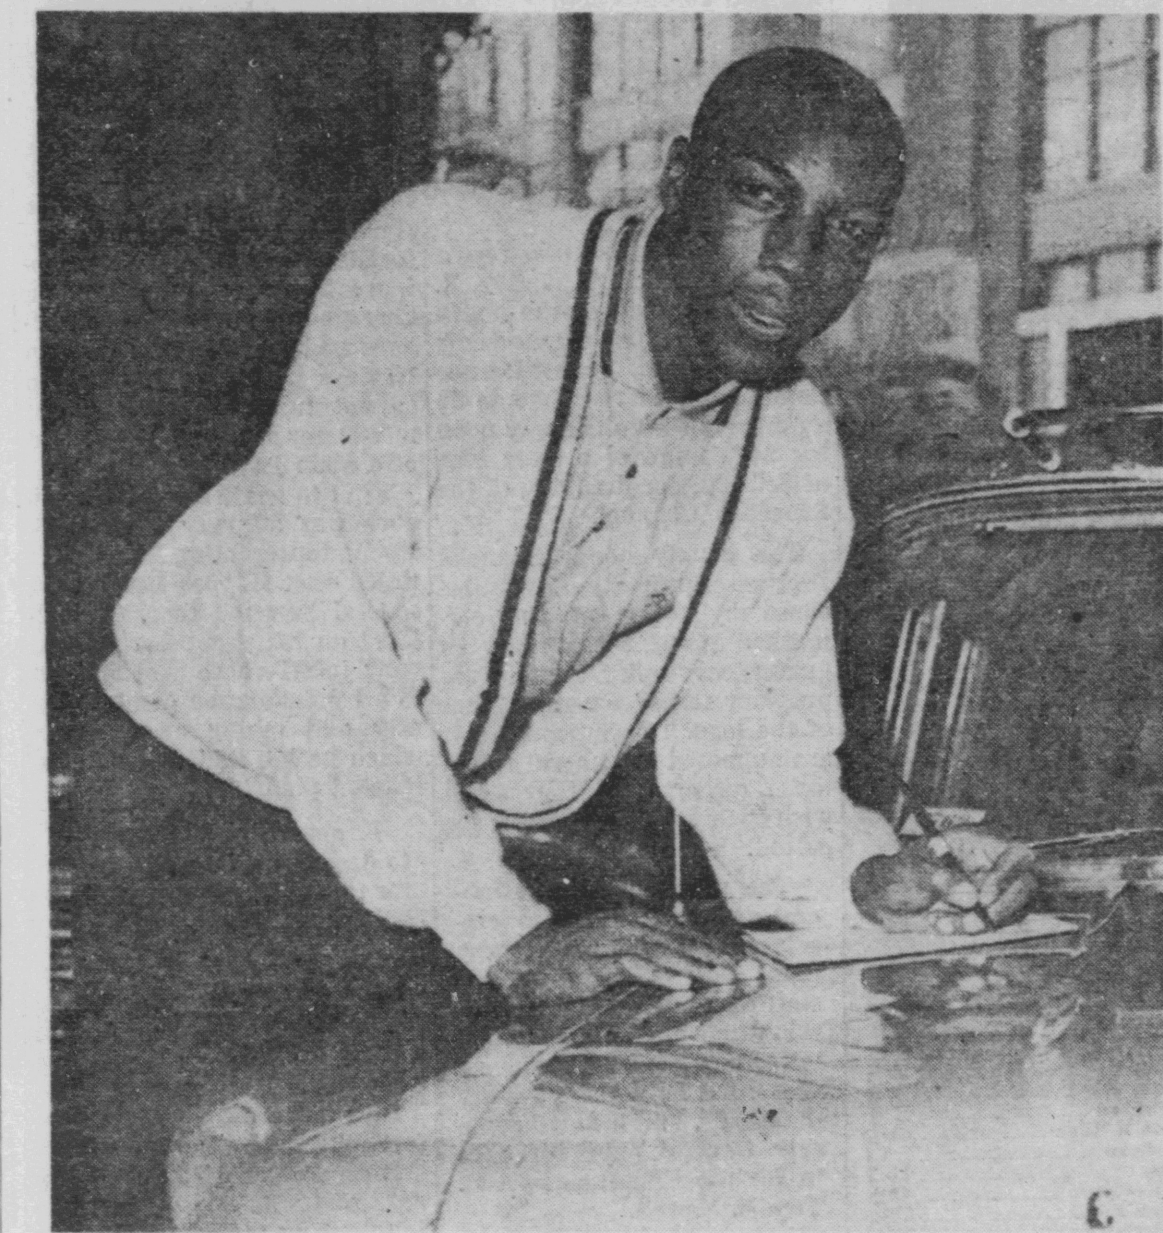

Tittle, star 49er quarterback, was benched after the fifth play of the game and replaced with John Brodie, who had worked only one play in seven previous National League games.

"A man's got to make decisions on the spot," the coach said. "If I had the decision again under the same conditions, I would do it the same way."

Hickey admitted he gets "sore" over interceptions but added, "I don't make decisions from emotion."

"Suppose I'd left him and he'd thrown a few more," he asked. "I'd have been criticized for standing pat."

"I reserve the right to make any decisions that I consider necessary. After I put Brodie in, he connected three times in a row. When John had trouble, I put YAT back in. "Tittle still is my No. 1 quarterback and he'll start against Baltimore Sunday. If he

'Big Game' Still Big Despite Both Teams' Losing Records

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—There's nothing at stake in the 62nd annual "Big Game" on Saturday except tradition. But that won't keep the fans home. 90,000 are expected to pack the Stanford Bowl for the great "Battle of the Losers."

The Indians, with three wins against six losses, are slight favorites to whip the battle-scarred Bears of California who won their first game of the year—then have dropped eight in a row.

"But records mean nothing in a game like this," says Cactus Jack Curtice, the Stanford mentor. "The longer I'm in this game the more I realize that a good part of it depends on the mental attitude of the players. That and the way the ball bounces."

Coach Pete Elliott of California agrees.

"We will have no trouble getting our boys 'up' mentally for this one," says Elliott. "Our trouble will be to stop the passing and running of Stanford."

The sell-out possibilities are the surprising thing about the game. Publicist Don Lieben-dorfer of Stanford reports that "only about 5,000 seats" still are available to the public.

Yesterday, at the weekly luncheon of the Northern California Football Writers' Assn. in Palo Alto, Chris Burford, Stanford end, was named the "Lineman of the Year"—and his pass-catching probably will cause the Bears some trouble.

However, Dick Norman, the Great Indian passer, didn't win the "Back of the Year" award. That went to Jimmy Sochor, quarterback of San Francisco State's unbeaten 'Gators. Joe Verducci, who coached this club to 10 straight victories, won "Coach of Year" honors for the region.

In another tradition-filled game of the area, College of Pacific tangles with San Jose State in Stockton, before about 23,000 fans.

This will be the 35th year of combat for these two clubs—with the Tigers, owning a 4-4 record, slight favorites to humble the Spartan club. San Jose has won 4, lost 5.

Scouts Brief Huskies

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—The Washington Huskies listened to scouting reports yesterday, then went through a light drill.

Coach Jim Owens, looking forward to the annual clash with Washington State this week end, said the gates would be closed to observers for the remainder of the week.

State's '59 Deer Hunt Bests 1958

Deer hunting in California this past season was much better than in 1958. A total of 69,800 deer were taken this year and 55,424 taken in 1958. In both the coastal and Sierra seasons. Average take 1954 to '58 was 63,989 animals.

In Marin, hunting was a great deal poorer with only 407 deer bagged. In 1958 the take was 610 and the 1954 to '58 average was 755.

Poor weather conditions, shortage of food and an epidemic that killed off many deer before the season got under way accounted for the poor season take of deer in Marin.

Each year civilization is taking its toll on the land available for deer and in many areas grazing areas have been turned into home subdivisions.

In Mendocino County, which is the number one county in the early season, 3,652 deer were taken this past season. Modoc produced 5,201 animals for the hunters this past season.

Inspector Of Trout Averts Disaster

Routine inspection of trout importations at California's border has saved the State's freshwater fisheries from a possible disaster of major proportions, the Department of Fish and Game reported today.

A fungus parasite known as Ichthyosporidium, known in the east as "herring disease," was found in a shipment of some 6,000 trout consigned to the Sacramento Valley area. The shipment was turned back at the border.

Had the shipment been permitted into the state, such popular fisheries as salmon, striped bass, shad, sturgeon, as well as trout, could have been seriously jeopardized.

This parasite invades the entire body of the fish and has been known to cause extremely high mortality in trout populations. It is a microscopic, spherical organism. Its presence has never been reported in the freshwater fish of California, and it has only rarely been reported in freshwater fish of North America. One report of an outbreak in the United States resulting from this organism revealed mortalities up to 90 percent in all ages of trout.

State law requires that any live fish imported into California must be inspected for disease or parasites before being permitted into the state. The Department of Fish and Game must be notified of impending shipments 10 days in advance and the importer must pay the costs of inspection.

Last week salmon began to show again and many fish were taken in the lightship vicinity. Small salmon seemed to be plentiful and fishing should be greatly improved next year.

In general, sports fishermen who cater to the wants of salmon fishers had a poor year.

Exceptionally dry weather has been detrimental to the steelhead runs in the coastal rivers. Heavy rains will produce the necessary flow of water that will start the salmon and steelhead on their way up the rivers to spawn.

SAN MATEO (P)—Blue Hue ($13) scored a nose verdict in the Bay Meadows feature yesterday.

erics program. He expressed his agency's willingness to undertake the suggested basic research and coordination programs, if funds were made available.

Several important reports given by representatives at Sunday's meeting will be printed during the week.

Pheasant Hunters Find Slim Pickin's

Pheasant hunting opened last Saturday for a 16-day run throughout most of the state and continuing through Nov. 29.

Pre-season prediction of scarcity of pheasants has run true to form in practically every area of the state.

On the other hand some hunters have had the usual luck. The writer with 17 other hunters bagged 32 birds last Saturday in the Willows area. Nearly everyone limited. On Sunday hunting was a little slower, but it was good.

Many clubs and co-operative pheasant clubs have planted more birds than ever before on account of the shortage of locally hatched pheasants. This has been the only salvation in saving the sport of pheasant hunting. It is hoped that enough brood stock will be left for the nesting season next year.

Don't misunderstand us that the pheasant crop has disappeared—it hasn't. There are birds in every section of the pheasant area, but they are not as plentiful as in past years.

Last year's weather conditions are blamed for the small hatch. Lack of rain and moisture prevented the pheasant chicks from hatching.

A good wet spring next year should improve conditions considerably.

Pheasant bag limits this year are two cocks per day for the first two days of the season, and four per day thereafter, with a 10-bird total limit for the entire season. Hunters must purchase pheasant tags and birds killed must be tagged immediately.

In addition to the 13 pheasant co-ops, pheasant hunting will be permitted on a fee basis on five Waterfowl Management Areas (Honey Lake, Gray Lodge, Grizzly Island, Los Ban-os and Mendota) and on three National Wildlife Refuges (Columbia, Sutter and Merced) under certain conditions.

Checking stations on all co-ops will open at 6 a.m. on opening weekend and 7 a.m. thereafter. Permits will be issued on a first-come first-served basis. (No lists made up by hunters waiting in line will be honored.) Shooting time is 8 a.m. and quitting time is 4:30 p.m.

A hunter must have his hunting license and pheasant tags before permits can be issued.

F-G Agency Chief To Be Meet Speaker

The regular monthly meeting of the Marin Rod and Gun Club will be held on Friday, November 20 at the Marin Rod and Gun Club clubhouse at 8 p.m.

Every member is urged to attend this meeting as nomination of officers will be made.

Our guest speaker will be William E. Warne, Director California Department of Fish and Game. He will speak on "California's Fish and Game." Mr. Warne has many interesting facts about our present day fishing and hunting conditions.

Nominations will be opened for president, secretary, treasurer and three directors.

Election will be held at the December meeting.

Remember—Several dressed turkeys will be given away during the evening.

Come to the meeting—bring the family and your sportsmen friends.

Initiation will be held and several reels of pictures will be shown by Leo Ciucci.

Entertainment chairman Mrs. Charles Lamperti reports that a Silent Auction will be held after the meeting.

The Auxiliary is working with the Department of Fish and Game, to place signs at the beaches and fishing spots with the new 1960 game laws. The new regulations will be passed Dec. 3 in Sacramento. There will be quite a few changes.

Meeting at 8:00 p.m., entertainment, refreshments. Initiation.

Need For Research Program On Salmon Stressed In Hearing Before Rep. Miller

Need for a large-scale program of basic research on salmon was stressed by representatives of state and federal fisheries agencies and commercial and sport fishing leaders at a public hearing on northern California fisheries problems conducted by Congressman Clem Miller at the Marin Rod and Gun Club clubhouse at Point San Quentin on Sunday, November 15.

Sitting in with Congressman Miller were Congressman Harold T. Johnson of Roseville and Assemblyman Paul Lunardi, member of the Assembly fish and game committee. Congressman George Miller, who was to have been co-chairman of the hearing, was unable to attend.

Congressman Clem Miller is the author of a recently passed bill setting up a $2,700,000 program for assistance to sport fisheries. No funds have yet been appropriated for the program, and one purpose of Sunday's meeting was to amass more facts to aid in securing the appropriation.

Among the nearly 100 conservation leaders attending the hearing were William E. Warne, director of the California Department of Fish and Game; P. W. Snyder, director of the Oregon State Game Commission; Albert M. Day, director of the Oregon Fish Commission and former director of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service; Ross Leonard, director of the Idaho Fish and Game Department; Clarence Pautzke, assistant director of the Washington State Department of Fisheries; J. T. Barnaby, chief of the Division of Sports Fisheries of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service; and Milton C. James, research coordinator of the Pacific Fisheries Commission.

Sportsmen's leaders included George Difani, executive secretary of the California Wildlife Federation; Paul McKeehan and Charles Bohrmann of the Associated Sportsmen; Ray Welsh of the Sportsmen's Council of the Redwood Empire and of Salmon Unlimited; Ed Kohlhauf of the Golden Gate Sportsfishers; and officials of the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

Representatives of the commercial fishermen included John W. Gilchrist of the California Seafood Institute, and Bruce North and Dave Davidson of the Central California

BASIC RESEARCH NEEDED

Director William E. Warne of the California Department of Fish and Game led off the hearing by emphasizing the need for the federal government to provide leadership and coordination for a planned program of basic salmon research.

"We all need basic answers on the dynamics of the salmon," Warne said. "What makes abundance fluctuate so widely? What are the relative effects of different forces and conditions causing mortality? At what stages in its life history is the salmon most vulnerable? What is the salmon's reaction to changes in its environment? What are the factors that limit salmon abundance? How best can artificial propagation contribute to increasing salmon production?"

With the federal government obtaining answers of this kind and disseminating the information to the conservation agencies, Warne said, the states will be able to concentrate their efforts on applying the knowledge to local problems.

California stands ready and willing to pull its share of the load in a coordinated fisheries conservation program, Warne promised.

SALMON CATCH UP

Richard Croker, chief of the marine resources branch of the California Department of Fish and Game, cited fluctuations in the salmon catches and salmon spawning runs during the last five or six years. He said the catch this year should total about 7,000,000 pounds, after the low last year of only 3,700,000 pounds. The record high, in 1956, was 10,300,000 pounds, and the five-year average was about 5,000,000 pounds. Spawning runs in Central Valley streams plunged from an average of 493,000 in the years 1953-1955 to 189,000 fish annually in the three-year period 1956-1958. This year's run, however, appears to be substantially larger.

How much the ups and downs are just natural fluctuations is not known, Croker said. But the accumulating effects of man-inflicted damage are playing an increasing part, he stressed. And unless all concerned take positive action, the end could be in sight.

John Gilchrist, of the Northern California Seafood Institute, stressed that scientific information on which to base a marketing program would be invaluable to industry planning.

"We do not now have adequate knowledge on many problems," Gilchrist said. He cited the problems created by California water development, pollution, and atomic waste disposal.

SPORTSMEN HEARD

George Difani, executive secretary of the California Wildlife Federation, stressed the economic importance of sport fishing, noting that California had over 1,400,000 angling license buyers.

Difani pointed out that commercial and sports fishermen were united in recognizing the need for basic research. Such research was essential, he said, for guiding such fisheries management programs as habitat improvement, screen and ladder installation, and the setting of regulations.

Ray Welsh, of the Redwood Empire Sportsmen's Council and Salmon Unlimited, said it was urgent to get under way a full-scale program of both research and action. With so much to be done, the Federal Government must be put in a position to coordinate the work if we are to maintain our salmon resources, Welsh said.

Speaking for Director Harvey Banks of the California Water Resources Department, William Fairbank said that development of the state's water resources posed a serious problem for salmon and steelhead. But his department was working closely with the DFG and he was hopeful that these fishery resources could not only be preserved, but could actually be enhanced by programs included in the California Water Plan.

Hatcheries or artificial spawning beds are recommended wherever proposed dams would block spawning runs, he noted. And 13 stream flow maintenance dams are recommended for fisheries enhancement of north coast streams.

Many problems were still unanswered, however and a federal research program would be most helpful, Fairbank stressed.

SCHOLARSHIPS SUGGESTED

Dr. Paul Needham, professor of fisheries at the University of California, also underlined the need for basic research. He praised the scholarship program of the San Francisco Tyee Club, and suggested that more such research fellowships should be sponsored by both private groups and the federal government.

P. W. Snyder, director of the Oregon State Game Commission, said cooperation of state and federal agencies on the Columbia river was outstanding, but that there was need for overall research coordination on a nationwide basis. Albert M. Day, director of the Oregon Fish Commission and former director of the USFWS, also stressed cooperation on the Columbia river, but noted that much more effort was needed in research.

Ross Leonard, director of the Idaho Fish and Game Department, observed that fish are no respecters of state boundaries—about half the salmon in the Columbia are spawned in Idaho, and a lot of these Idaho-spawned fish are caught in California. Only over-all coordination could deal with the problem.

Clarence Pautzke, assistant director of the Washington Department of Fisheries, stressed that there was not only need for federal research projects, but also for increased federal contributions toward state research programs.

J. T. Barnaby, chief of the division of sport fisheries of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, described the development of the federal sport fish-

Ross Branch, NGA, Sets Traditional Tea

Mrs. Benjamin H. While the Needlework Guild of America is national in scope it is concerned with local needs. The guild which has more than 400 branches coast to coast, never gives used clothing or "hand-me-downs" but "hand-me-ups" which boost morale of the recipients. Membership in a branch is obtained by giving two new and identical garments or the equivalent in money.

National headquarters are located in Philadelphia where there is a full time staff of three, headed by the executive director, Mrs. E. A. Desborough. All the other workers are volunteers.

Ross branch has several new directors this year. These are Mrs. Allen Leslie Rowland, who heads the sewing section of Country Club Heights in San Rafael, Mrs. Evelyn B. Outdoor Art Club Table Setting 'From Elegance To Informality'

Thirty-two members demonstrated ideas in table settings that ranged from the last word in elegance and sophistication to extreme informality at Thursday's home day luncheon meeting of the Outdoor Art Club. Mrs. William Pemberton was chairman for the table settings program, and Mrs. Robert Andrensen was luncheon chairman.

High point in elegance was Mrs. Chester Dennis's "Holiday tea at Strawberry Hill" — so named because of Mrs. Dennis's collecting of anything and everything with strawberry motifs. The handsome tea service, napkins, spoons, individually patterned cups and saucers, candelabra and glassware all had strawberry designs.

Originality was the keynote of Mrs. Fred Drexler's predominantly chartreuse persimmon and black table featuring pewter containers filled with cock's comb and orange oranges as centerpiece, and black plates on larger ones in nutmeg color set on string placemats.

Sophistication was the word for the twin tables done by Mrs. Leigh Athearn and Mrs. George Blackwell, one a "beforehand" table stressing the masculine touch, and the other a tete-a-tete supper for two in the best Zsa-Zsa Gabor style.

In a class all its own was Mrs. Virgil Holli's luncheon table set with her grandmother's blue and white Delft china that included two extraordinary pieces—a dish with eyelets that could be threaded with ribbon and a little mug which when held up to the light showed a child's picture on the bottom.

In striking holiday mood was Mrs. Edward Johnson's formal dinner table for six in blue and white with centerpiece of blue candles and blue cones sprayed with glitter. And also in the holiday theme were Mrs. Richard Stanton's informal red and green dinner table and Mrs. Lowell Jett's table with centerpiece of a huge pod filled with Christmas ornaments and side table for demitasse coffees.

Exquisite blue and white Wedgewood dishes made Mrs. Fred Etzold's luncheon table outstanding, and a nautical theme of Mrs. Robert Potter's table a fruit, coral and rope centerpiece flanked by ship's lanterns was an inspiration to yachting enthusiasts.

Carried out in exotic themes using low tables and cushions on the floor for seats were Mrs. John Hurley's intimate tea table in black, gold and white —Mrs. Robert Moore's went in Japanese style, and Mrs. Richard Stanton's in Chinese.

Authentic antique with pressed glass and old Haviland was Mrs. Charles Ayers table, and ideas for camping were illustrated by Mrs. William Searles and G. A. Harrison and Mrs. William Pleasants.

Others arranging tables in attractive good taste were Mesdames R. B. Hartman, Wayne Bingham, Robert Perry and Henry Heilbron, Joseph Giblin, Elvira Becker, Jay Chilton, George Kahler, Blyth Adams, Robert Laughead, U. G. Karrer, F. K. Vreeland, Harry Fletcher, Leslie Wellington, William Fleming and Walter Long.

During the brief business meeting two new members presented with gardenia corsages were Mrs. Yiwen Tang and Leslie Jonas, as well as Mrs. Win-fred Detsch, an earlier new member who had not yet received her corsage.

Mrs. Andrensen was assisted by Mesdames Joseph Sheeks, Ralph Cless, Robert Laughead, Jack Younger, Larry Brink, Donald Gallagher, Charles Hamel, John Nahapiet, Howard Lieben and Donald Harper. Mrs. Fleming was at the door, and pouring were Mesdames Philip Sinnott and Pleasants.

Mrs. Samuel Seifer, decorations chairman, arranged fall flowers in the foyer, and Mrs. David Allison, art chairman, displayed paintings done by Mill Valley artist Fay Morgan Taylor. The garden section also displayed many of the items they will have for sale at the Christmas decorations sale on Dec. 10.

Philip Zublers Feted At Large Reception

A reception was given recently at the San Quentin home of Mrs. Ernest F. Zubler honoring her son, Philip R. Zubler, his wife, Carol, and son Raymond who stopped here for a couple of days en route to Tokyo where Philip will be superintendent of manufacturing for Japan Cine Equipment Manufacturing Co. Ltd., a foreign branch Bell Howell Company.

This is Bell Howell's first plant in a foreign land. Philip's job will be to set up the plant, lay out plans for procedure, equipment and personnel before manufacture starts.

Philip was reared in San Quentin where his father, the late Ernest F. Zubler was superintendent of the jute mill at San Quentin Prison until his retirement. Philip's mother, whose maiden name was Grace Duffy, lives in the home where her father, the late William J. Duffy, brought his family from San Pablo in 1895.

Philip attended San Quentin elementary school where he was taught the first four years by his aunt, Mrs. George Zang (Alma Duffy) and the last four years by another aunt, Mrs. Clinton T. Duffy (Gladys Carpenter).

Philip was graduated from San Rafael High School and College of Marin. He was a radar technician in the Navy during World War II. After the war he went to Chicago to attend the American School of Television and he was graduated as an electronics engineer. He taught electronics at Milwaukee School of Engineering and from there he went to Bell Howell in Chicago as an electronic engineer. In 1950 he married Carol Weisenmayer of Chicago. His wife and small son flew to Hawaii from the San Francisco International Airport where they will spend several days before boarding a plane for Tokyo.

At the reception Mrs. Zubler's daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Price, shared the hostess role with her mother. Among those present were Lt. Col. and Mrs. Edward A. Peters (Jean Duffy), Mr. and Mrs. Clinton T. Duffy, Mr. and Mrs. Richard G. Peters and daughters, Bonnie Mae and Robin, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Zubler and daughter, Joan; Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kirby and children, Warren Jr., Richard, Kristine and Robert; Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Loessberg, Mrs. George Zang, Col. Frank Hainze and O. F. Jacobsen and Stephen Price of Marin; Mr. and Mrs. William Duffy of Woodland, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. LeLande and Mr. and Mrs. William Zubler of San Francisco and Jim Price of Sanger, who is attending Fresno State College.

Kelly, Jack Forster and Erven Keppel, members of the decorations committee. Mrs. Forster is the Chief's daughter. Firemen's Ball, department's sole fund-raising event, will be held Saturday at the Corte Madera Recreation Center, with dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. (Independent-Journal photo)

Belvedere Guild To Give Preview

Distinguished Artists To Appear On Thursday Musical Program

Pennafort Hall, the beautiful new building on Dominican campus, will be the local for the program of Thursday Musical Club on Thursday afternoon at 3:30. Featured will be two outstanding artists, both San Franciscan, Hans Basserman, violinist, and Stephanie Shehatovich, pianist.

Mr. Basserman was encouraged in his musical career by Johannes Brahms, friends of his parents, who visited them at their home in Frankfurt, Germany and heard small Hans play. The world famous composer induced the parents to have the child study with Henri Marteau, Carl Flesch and Andreas Moser. Mr. Basserman has been concertmaster with many famous orchestras in Europe and was soloist in Europe, Palestine, Egypt and the United States and has taught in famous musical colleges and conservatories.

Miss Shehatovich, an American by birth, began her piano studies in Rochester, New York. Later, her teachers were Leopold Godowsky in New York, Isidor Phillips in Paris and Emil von Sauer in Vienna. As a fellow of the Julliard Graduate School, she studied with Alexander Siloti. She has toured Europe and played in the major cultural centers there, as well as in the United States. THE PARENTS' CORNER

By RICHARD BARBOUR, Ph. D.
Guidance Counsellor

Tendency of Teen-Agers Toward Self-Pity Can Prove Dangerous

We all feel sorry for ourselves part of the time. But some of our teen-agers make a career of it.

Self-pity isn't good. Let's take a look.

When you're 13, or 15 you're growing fast. You sense new powers and want to be as free as the adults around you. You want to choose your own companions, decide when to study and when not to. You want to control your coming and going.

But your parents say no. They see risks you are unaware of. So you are blocked. You live with frustration. Remember?

One result is self-pity. Most teen-agers are sure they are abused. They think they are worse off than other kids and know their parents are unfair.

Are your teen-agers this way? If not, you're lucky. Self-pity leads some to open rebellion. Girls in this state are apt to become sex delinquents. Rebellious boys may commit all sorts of crimes. They fight the world and their parents. They land in jail.

Others retreat. They find satisfaction in their day dreams, in books, television or radio.

They care less and less about getting along at school and at home. A few become mentally ill. Most coast along ineffectually. Finally in their late teens they snap out of it.

Here are some suggestions: Keep track of your children's abilities. Expand their freedom as far as you can safely. Let them learn if they use good judgment they'll get still more freedom. Then they won't pity themselves so much.

When you must crack down, explain. Don't just give orders. Talk over the situation and listen to their arguments. Try to hold your temper. Make compromises. It won't be easy.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN ORDINANCE PROHIBITING THE FILLING OF THAT CERTAIN BODY OF WATER WITHIN THE COUNTY OF MARIN KNOWN AS RICHARDSON BAY.

THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF THE COUNTY OF MARIN DO ORDAIN as follows:

SECTION 1: This Board of Supervisors has heretofore caused to be made extensive engineering studies and plans for the control of flood waters in those areas of the County constituting the watershed which discharges into that certain natural body of water known as Richardson Bay, based upon reports and maps thereof, of the parcel shown in Diagram and Assessment Number 681B on the diagram and assessment heretofore confirmed by Resolution of said Board, pursuant to Resolution No. 68, adopted by said Board on August 25, 1955, to all of which reference is hereby made for further particulars.

(a) That Richardson Bay, as hereinafter described, is a natural floodway for the transportation and temporary storage of storm waters, flood waters, and tide waters, and that any construction, not already existing, for any purpose, which would result in the flooding of extensive portions of the uplands and surrounding watershed tributary to Richardson Bay, the construction of which will be to create unhealthy conditions, create hazards to life and property and produce other conditions adverse to the health, safety and general public welfare.

(b) That the lands, streets, boulevards, canals and other lands within said Richardson Bay and which constitute said floodway are presently being filled and developed in such a fashion as to obstruct said floodway and that such operations will continue unless immediately prohibited.

(c) That any filling of said Richardson Bay in the area hereinafter described, which would result in the flooding of extensive portions of the uplands and surrounding watershed tributary to Richardson Bay, the construction of which will be to create unhealthy conditions, create hazards to life and property and produce other conditions adverse to the health, safety and general public welfare, is hereby prohibited.

(d) That an emergency exists which requires urgent and immediate intervention by the County of Marin through the adoption of this ordinance to regulate the activities hereinafter referred to, which is hereby declared to be unlawful in the County of Marin, State of California, for any person, firm or corporation to permit, cause, to permit, do or cause to do any of the following:

Construct within, deposit within, or fill with solid waste materials, dirt, earth, mud, garbage, refuse, or any material whatsoever, any of the lands, tideslands, streets, roads, boulevards, canals or channels, or any portion thereof, and whether privately or publicly owned, within the area described in Exhibit "A" attached hereto and incorporated herein by reference.

SECTION 2: The restrictions contained in this ordinance shall not apply to lands, tideslands, streets, roads, boulevards, canals or channels, or any portion thereof filled and developed in accordance with a duly adopted and approved plan by the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin and which will not interfere with the use of Richardson Bay as a natural floodway.

SECTION 4: Any person, firm or corporation violating the provisions of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by imprisonment in the County Jail for a period not to exceed six (6) months or by a fine not to exceed Five Hundred Dollars ($500.00) or by both such fine and imprisonment, Each day during which any person, firm or corporation shall continue or allow to continue to violate this ordinance shall be deemed a new offense and shall subject the violator to additional prosecution.

Unhappy Video Cowpokes In Mass Mutiny

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The whole town's talking about the Burbank mutiny.

Never have so many actors been so unhappy as in the Warner Brothers TV productions. Wayne Preston ("Colt .45") has walked off the lot and gone into the airplane business, complaining that his contract was "as equitable as a lynching party."

Edd Byrnes ("77 Sunset Strip") refused to report for work until he got a raise. He gets $400 weekly, says he takes home only $284.

THEY'RE BITTER

James Garner ("Maverick") and Clint Walker ("Cheyenne") are bitter about their contracts. Says Garner: "I feel like a slab of meat hanging there; every once in a while they cut off a piece."

Peter Brown ("Lawman") is trying to get a new contract. Will Hutchins ("Sugarfoot") says he feels like a "peon actor."

Jack Kelly ("Maverick") is not mulling revolt but feels he is working "in an area of servitude."

Ty Hardin ("Bronco"), who once threatened a walkout, now appears content. So are Efrem Zimbalist and Roger Smith, the sleuths of "77 Sunset Strip," and John Russell ("Lawman").

NOT UNUSUAL

Of course, it's not unusual for actors to complain; it's chronic with their craft. Nor is Warner Brothers an unfamiliar battle ground.

But there has never been such a mass uprising as among the cowpokes of the TV range. The situation even reached the point of an official complaint from the Screen Actors Guild.

A hasty meeting of guild and studio officials reached an agreement to rectify certain working conditions.

The actors claimed they were due money in six figures for alleged contract violations, mostly involving overtime.

OLD BATTLE

But the settlement hasn't stopped the beefs. The battle is an old one between the studio which feels it created stars from nothing and the stars who feel they are misused. It is aggravated because of the immense volume of work required for TV, plus the fact that the new medium creates stars so fast.

The studio's official reply to the restless actors comes from William T. Orr, television executive producer and himself once an actor.

"Warner Brothers contracts have made it possible for many players to develop from complete unknowns in a brief time. These contracts, signed in good faith by both parties, have opened the door to opportunity and advancement," Orr said.

Polio Marchers To Hold Plan Meeting

Marin County volunteers for the 22nd annual Mothers March of Dimes will attend an organizational meeting at 1 p.m. Thursday in the home of Mrs. Stephen M. Heller, 177 Bret Harte road, San Rafael.

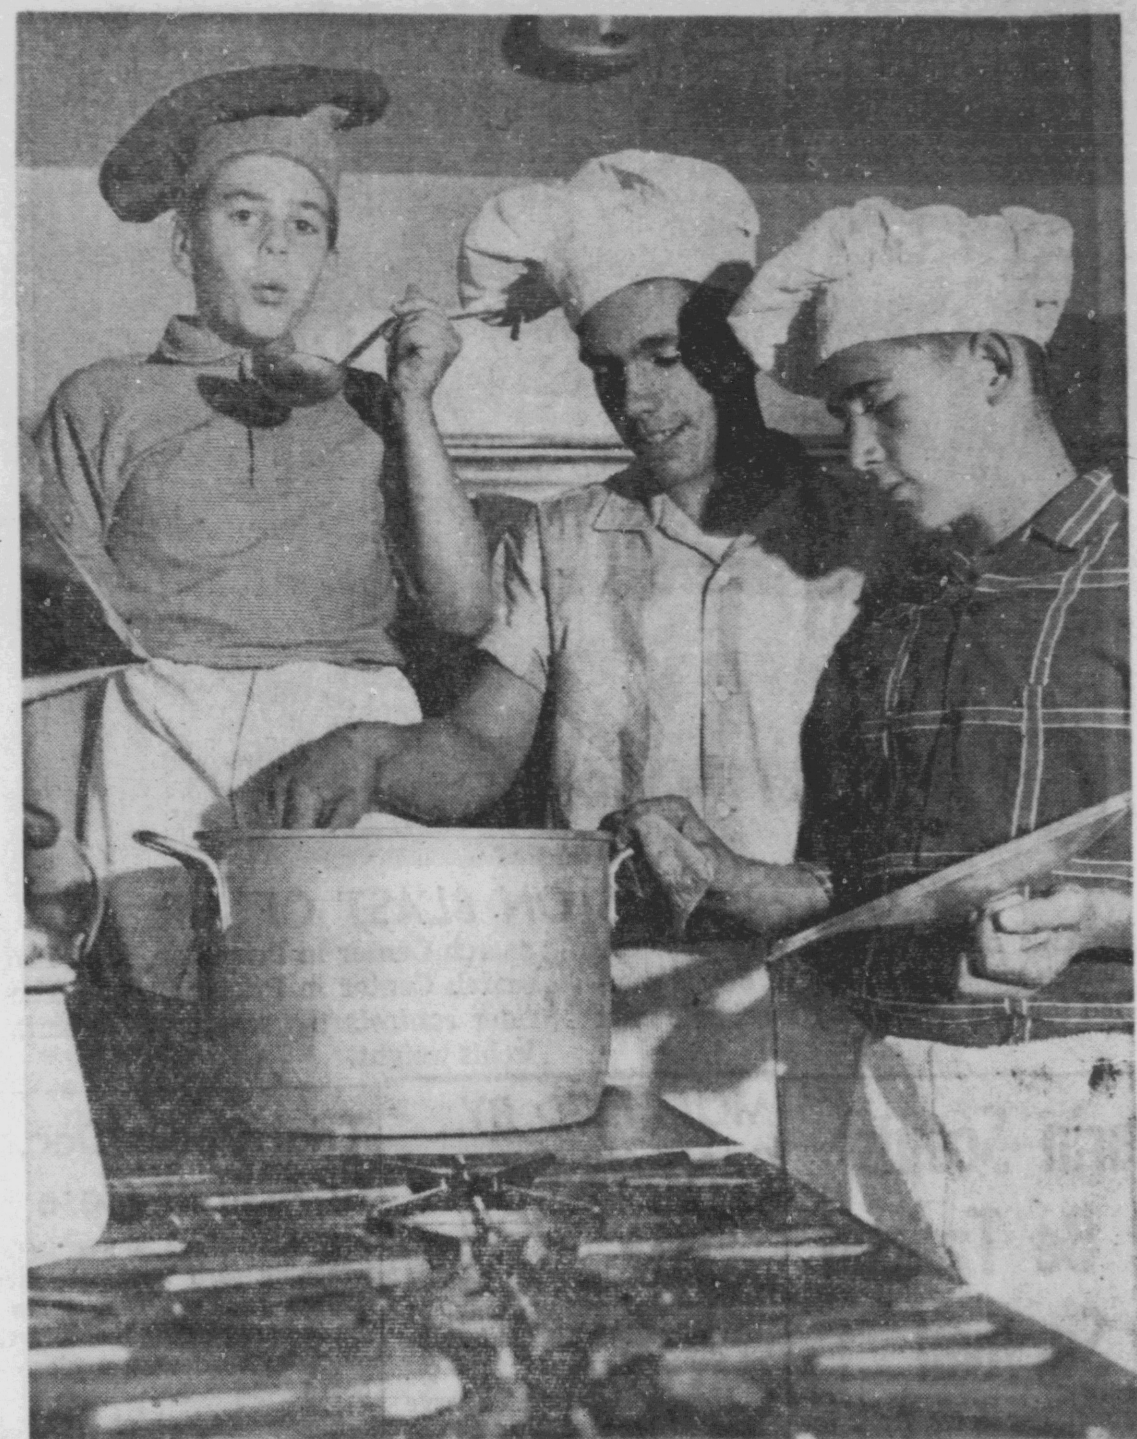

Members of the Post Polio League (a group of polio victims) will help organize the march. A dessert tea will be served to the prospective marchers.

Mrs. Jules Becker, county chairman for the Mothers March, said volunteers are needed for the march.

Ex-Marin Catholic Principal To Speak

Rev. Lawrence A. Ryan, former principal of Marin Catholic High School and recently appointed pastor of St. Mary's Church in Vacaville, will address the Newman Club at the University of California at Davis tonight. His topic will be "Psychiatry and Religion."

He will be introduced by Tim Fitzharris, Marin Catholic High School graduate. Sue Fitzharris of San Rafael is club secretary.

TOO MANY COOKS?

Novato Hill School students (from left) Bob Hamill, John Miller and Roy Otis, prepare spaghetti for Parent-Teacher Assn. dinner at the school tomorrow night. Scheduled for the multi-purpose room from 5 to 7 p.m., the dinner will raise funds for emblems and awards for the pupils for excellence in scholarship, band, orchestra, sports, library work, art and science. Mrs. Frank Helbing, P-TA chairman of arrangements, said the boys' Block H Club and girls' Letterettes Club will help in servicing and decorating for the event.

Board To Consider Check On Pupils' Later Progress

The Lagunitas School District Board wants to know how its pupils do when they get in high school, compared with children from other districts.

A proposal to have the Tamalpais High School District check on this information will be discussed by the board on Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Lagunitas School.

Also on the agenda are plans for the tax election campaign and progress report on the metal storage facility project.

Author Meyer Levin's lecture in San Rafael tomorrow evening will be the first of the "Signature Series" sponsored by the Marin Jewish Community Center.

Levin, author of the best selling novel, "Compulsion," and a new documentary novel, "Eva," will speak on "The Indestructible Identity of the Jew." His appearance is scheduled for 8:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the center at Mission and Forbes avenues.

Future programs in the "Signature Series" are to present Mira Gilbert, folk singer, and Howard Da Silva, actor-director. Tickets for the series are on sale at the center office.

Marin Teacher's Story In National Magazine

Mrs. Kathryn Rember Carlson, fifth grade teacher at Santa Margarita School in Dixie School District, is represented in the December issue of Instructor, nationally circulated teachers' magazine.

Under the heading, "Christmas in the Forest," she tells about a dramatic activity developed when she was teaching in Bay View School at Monterey.

Crusade Near Quota, Dinner Fete Slated

Marin's United Crusade tabulation is "within a few percentage points" of the $150,000 quota and a "victory dinner meeting" will be held Thursday evening at Rickey's Rancho Rafael, Ignacio, campaign chairman E. W. Bullard Jr. announced today.

The drive is expected to be over the top by that time, Bullard said. The latest count was $143,593, 95.6 per cent, and the flow of donations was continuing. If possible, Bullard added, Marin will try to reach $169,258, which was the quota the county failed to achieve last year.

Sponsors of the Thursday meeting, which is expected to attract more than 100 crusade leaders and workers, will be the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and E. D. Bullard Co.

Special emphasis will be given electronic, mathematical and scientific aspects of rockets and missileery.

Missile crewmen and a Nike guided missile will be used in a demonstration of what happens at a missile site as it prepares for action and shoots down a simulated invader attacking San Francisco.

Willis Sentencing Set For Friday

Dr. and Mrs. Jack E. Willis of Greenbrae, convicted of performing illegal abortions in the doctor's Mill Valley office, are scheduled to be sentenced at 2 p.m. Friday.

The case was set for yesterday before Judge Thomas F. Keating of Marin Superior Court, but it was postponed because the attorney for the doctor and his wife could not be present.

Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich said attorney Leslie Gillen will be tied up in trials until Friday.

MOM IRED BY SANTA'S GIFT OF SEXY DOLL

LONDON (UPI)—A London woman, identified only by the initials "S. H.," is furious at Santa Claus.

Mrs. S. H. visited a large London store, she wrote the London Pictorial, and Santa Claus gave her 7-year-old daughter a doll "with a sexy, well-developed figure of a woman."

The doll "had a heavily made-up face, wore tight-fitting slacks and blouse, high-heeled shoes and Bardot-style hair-do," she wrote.

"I think this type of doll is most unsuitable for a little girl, particularly as a present from Santa," she complained. "It is hardly a cuddly toy."

Boy Scout Council Board To Eye Moving To Smaller Headquarters

Purchase of a half-acre San Rafael lot and construction of a new building considerably smaller than the present Scout Hall will be considered at an executive board dinner meeting of the Marin Boy Scout Council at 6:30 p. m. today at the Woodlands Restaurant in Kentfield.

This proposal is one of many comprising a long-range program formulated during the past year by a special committee formed as result of an Oct. 15 meeting last year. Its report comprises a booklet prepared under chairmanship of Kenneth K. Bechtel, of Ross, former national chairman of the Boy Scouts of America.

Dominican Pupils Receive Praise

Four seniors at Dominican Convent Upper School have been cited for outstanding performance on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test last spring.

Letters of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Corp. were received by Judith Boss, Joyce LaFontaine, Susannah Leonard and Mary Teresa Malley.

Some 27,000 students from over the United States received commendation for their high performance in the tests, although they did not achieve the status of semi-finalists.

Police Persevere; So Do Gamblers

DETROIT (UPI)—Police raided a dice game, smashed the table being used for the game with axes and arrested 27 men for gambling.

Two hours later they returned, found the table nailed back together and the game going on again with eight of the same men playing. One of the men broke his leg as he leaped from a second floor porch in an escape attempt.

Assisting as co-chairman were Harrison Leppo and William E. Waste. The committee had a membership of 34 Marin residents.

Major considerations were summed up under three headings.

Under "membership" it was found that "we face large increases . . . and will need more staff to serve the boy population and volunteer scout groups as the years progress."

The question of new scout headquarters was brought up under "facilities," where it was found that "we need a new scout headquarters building designed and equipped to become a real 'service headquarters' for Marin scouting."

Under this heading, also, was a recommendation that two camps be planned and built to serve the increasing membership, along with an additional camp-site as safeguard for future needs.

A financial section found that a new building and furnishings could be paid for by selling the existing headquarters.

But, it was added, nearly $275,000 will be needed for construction at the two camps, Tamarancho and Marin-Sierra, while additional acreage for a new camp-site was estimated as likely to cost about $80,000.

"The council's operating budget," said a preliminary letter "will necessarily grow in direct proportion to the needs to serve the growing population of Marin boys."

"Our plans must be flexible, and kept under study to match economic and community trends."

What's wrong with the present headquarters, according to the sub-committee headed by Sidney Braverman, started off with a complaint unusual in such matters: that the building at Second and A streets is too big.

It contains 10,000 square feet which, the sub-committee said, "is too large and presents substantial maintenance problems."

The proposed building, to be put on a half-acre lot costing about $20,000 and with ample parking space, would be a 4,000-square-foot structure costing about $48,000 and with a total outlay (including grading lot and furnishing) of about $75,000.

"This smaller but more efficient building," says the report, "would be adequate from now until at least 1970, when we expect to serve 8,100 boys in our program."

By getting various gratis services as when the present building went up, the report says, it is possible the new building might be constructed for $20,000 to $25,000, "thus providing monies for additions, if necessary, in 1970 and 1980."

Co-chairmen of this sub-committee were Fred R. Dickson and Joseph Morrison, supported by Harry Albert, R. Keith Dearth and Fred F. Enemark as members.

Albert's father, the late Jacob Albert, gave the land and made possible the construction of the present Scout Hall. The son, as a member of the sub-committee, concurred in the conclusion the council could be better served in smaller quarters.

Counts found by the group against the present building in addition to its size included: That it provides poor traffic flow, storage space is inadequate, acoustics are bad, reception and parking areas are inadequate, and "location, while satisfactory, could be improved."

Two plans were submitted for acquiring a new building. One suggested a loan with the present building as security for actual construction. The lot might be a gift, it was hoped.

The other was for sale of the present building and warehouse lot, from which a total $80,000 was thought possible.

In reaching the 4,000-square-foot figure, the sub-committee reported, it had examined the facilities of numerous other councils and found its figures "very adequate."

"Council office areas," the report says, "range from 300 square feet per 1,000 boys served in large councils to 600 square feet in smaller councils."

"Hence if we serve 11,760 boys in 1980, a 6,000-square-foot building should be very adequate, being about 500 square feet per 1,000 boys."

Another part of the report gave a 1959 county population of 146,500, boys 8 through 17 numbering 10,700, and members 4,600, and estimates of 5,060 members for 1960 for 1965 and 8,142 for 1970.
